THE EDITOR SAYS—

What the private opinion of The Standard editor is in regard to the individual candidates for Congress-at-large the fact remains that seniority counts above everything else on committee assignments and a new member is placed at the bottom of every committee to which he is assigned. He is supposed to be seen and not heard. This for both political parties of the State. Missouri has some ranking members, both Democratic and Republican, that should be given first consideration when casting the ballot because they are the ones who will get the best committee assignments and can get more recognition for our State. Few of us are pleased at the straddling stand taken by our members, but not being on tne ground know not what the leaders thought best to do. We are for the succes sof our ticket first and for the individuals next. We shall try and not let our personal likes and dislikes appear in print and support every nominee whole hearted.

The good will of one's fellowman is an asset that no one should overlook. Clean living, being truthful and honest, helpful to neighbor and those in distress, are the things that bring good will to a man or a business. Good will is a thing that money will not buy though occasionally we hear of someone selling a business with good will.

Sunday is Father's Day! Why specify any particular day. Every day is his day. He pays the bill when he goes a courting. He pays for the ring. He pays the preacher. He pays the doctor. He pays for the diapers. He pays for the clothes. He gives away the bride. Loves and spoils the grandbabies and in the end dies and sometimes is soon forgotten. Anyway, the right sort of Dad is a good thing to have in the family.

One of the worst pieces of cussedness that has come to our attention for a long time, was the destroying of a box of everlasting flowers placed over the grave of Miss Mattie Cox, who passed away some months ago. Parts of the box were found strewn over the cemetery and the name from the temporary marker torn to pieces. Just what possesses anyone to do such a thing is beyond understanding. This wreath was placed on the grave in the City Cemetery Decoration Day and should have remained there indefinitely. We hope a trace of the perpetrators can be found and severe punishment given.

A merchant said he didn't feel so sore at the man who owed him and couldn't pay for the reason that he hadn't the money and he must feed his family first, but he did gripe when a man owed him, didn't pay, but able to buy a new outfit of some sort. This sort of people gripe all business men who have accommodated them with credit.

One who spoke as though he was experienced said the prettiest face may conceal the ugliest disposition, while a face not so pretty may carry the sweetest disposition. He added, however, that the sweet disposition may be a cultivated article with which to cover the face. The form was not mentioned.

A can of corn is not a very large package, but it takes a bushel of mature corn at present price to pay for a can of the best grade of corn. A bushel of sound mature corn will make at least two bushels of lye homniy that will go a long way toward stopping hunger. If you are short of money to buy canned corn, why not put in some spare time in making lye hominy in small quantities for home consumption. It will save money and keep folks from worrying about other things.

While Bishop Cannon was addressing an audience on the evils of intemperance and for good morals, etc., some peckerwood asked him if his own skirts were clear. The p. w. was promptly put out of the hall. Another p. w. and another heckled him so much, that the meeting was not so pleasant. Poor Old Bishop, he's in a hell of a fix.

We are glad to inform our readers that Old Lidig Jeassu, exemperor of Abysinia, who has been a prisoner for 15 years and escaped to the hills of the Blue Nile, has been caught and again a prisoner of Emperor Haile Selassie, so our people can go on with their routine work without fear.

Bob Mow Heads Ball Club; Malone Named Manager at Meet Held Tuesday Night

Bow Mow, Sr., was selected to head the Sikeston Baseball Club as president. Tom Malone was unanimously chosen manager of the team, and E. F. Schorle was elected secretary-treasurer at a meeting of fans and stockholders of the Association Tuesday evening at the City Hall.

Mr. Mow himself a ball player and ardent fan is experienced in the whims and fancies of ball players and should prove to be a capable and efficient Club president.

Tom Malone has successfully headed the Sikeston team in the past, and to his credit is the fact that under his management the locals offered only the finest brand of good baseball to local fans. Malone usually imported his moundsmen and filled in weak spots in the lineup with out-of-town players, and presented an unusually strong lineup for an independent, small town baseball club. Even though the season is far advanced, an effort will be made to schedule games, and, more important, to lay a foundation for a first rate club next spring.

Emanual Schorle deserves much credit for the success of the venture thus far. As treasurer of the Association, which recently purchased a 10-acre park, built a grandstand, and made arrangements for other necessities at the grounds, Schorle and M. M. Beck have worked tirelessly in securing stockholders, and more recently in collecting for shares sold.

The Sikeston Baseball Association will be ready within two weeks to file papers of incorporation. It is necessary now to collect for all unpaid shares, to have signatures attested by a notary, and to send the completed file to Jefferson City for recording.

Drouth Continues in Sikeston Area

An exceedingly light shower Wednesday afternoon teased crops, lawns and other growing vegetation in the Sikeston vicinity, but in the main, drouth continues here while nearby areas, highly localized, have been visited by a number of drenching rains.

Wheat and hay hayest is underway an for the present farmers appreciate continued dry weather after a fashion. A peculiar situation exists, however, in that wheat is hardly worth harvesting this season, according to most reports, and a good rain, although it would slow up this part of the harvest, would help corn, melons, peas, beans and other growing crops.

Even though the southern part of Scott and the northern part of New Madrid Counties were passed up by the rain Wednesday afternoon, Benton and a strip thru the northern part of the county reported a fine shower. A general weekly report of the United States Weather Bureau stated that a general drouth existed in the southeast corner of the State.

The report continues:

Rains, though helpful to wheat and oats, came too late for best results, the report continued. Wheat and oats in northwest counties are filling their heads and south of the Missouri River the crop is ripening fast in small heads on short straw. With some local exceptions, oats are generally inferior.

Corn generally is making satisfactory growth and is well cultivated and clean except in some of the wet lowlands in the northwest. From St. Charles County to the southern border the crop needs rain, as does cotton in the southeast, although it has god color. Some alfalfa has been harvested, stripping blue grass has started with fair yields indicated, pastures have improved but need more rain, and the Ozark potato crop has started off under fair conditions, the report indicates.

Temperatures in the State last week varied from a high of 96 at Sikeston to a low of 48 at Arcadia. Rains, likewise, were varied, Lexington reporting the heaviest at 2.30 inches while several central and southern Missouri stations reported no precipitation. The average for the State was .67 of an inch and the season's moisture total is but 5.83 inches, contrasted with a normal of 10.31.

Man In Steel Box Descends 800 Feet In Volcano and Recovers Two Bodies

Hilo, T. H., June 13.—The bodies of a native lover and the girl who refused his suit were recovered today from the fiery pit of Mount Halemaumau.

R. Konishi, a Japanese contractor, had himself lowered 800 feet into the crater of the volcano in a steel box.

It took four hours for the Japanese to descend, accomplish his task and be drawn again to the rim. He got $1000 for his work.

Konishi said he suffered no discomfort from the heat, nor from the deadly sulphur fumes that rise in swirling yellow clouds from the molten lava which bubbled only a short distance beneath him.

The dead youth, Sylvester Nunes, had loved the girl, Margaret Enos, and been refused. A week ago he kidnaped her from her home, shot her sister in the hand when the sister attempted to frustrate the abduction, and drove to the rim of the volcano. There he shot and killed the girl.

With her body in his arms, he leaped into the fiery pit, following out an ancient Hawaiian custom established years ago by other frustrated lovers.

WESTWAY CLUB HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

The Westway Club of the Woman's Benefit Association held its meeting last night (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. E. N. Leech on Ruth Street. In Monday's paper it appeared that the meeting would be held with Mrs. Ben Ritter. It should have stated Mrs. Leech's home.

DIZZY DEAN QUITS CARDS IN A HUFF

Philadelphia, June 15.—Jerome Herman Dean, better known as "Dizzy", has left the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dean caught a train for St. Louis early today, declaring he was through with the world champions because they had not treated him right.

Dean, one of the most eccentric pitchers in the major leagues since the days of Rube Waddell, has kept the St. Louis club on tenterhooks dealing with his pranks all season. Several times before he had threatened to quit.

It was learned from reliable sources that Dean felt that he had not received favors from the Cardinals which he desired and left the city 'in a huff".

"Dean has no real grieveance against the Cardinals", Gabby Street, manager of the club, said. "He has been treated fairly, but he is a hard proposition to handle".

First Season

This is Dean's first season as a big leaguer. The Cardinals had him last year, but farmed him to Houston in the Texas League, where he helpel pitch the team to the pennant and was voted the most valuable player in the circuit.

This season Dean has not been the sensation it was predicted he would become. He has been hit hard in many of his contests, even those he won.

Dean in St. Louis recently announced he wanted to be traded by St. Louis because he was not permitted to work regularly enough.

On one of the days during the Phils series there, Dean refused to get in uniform because he was not allowed to pitch, according to Phillies' players.

MARGARET MARY HUNTER AND DEE ROWLING WED

New Madrid, June 15.—Dee Rolwing and Miss Margaret Mary Hunter were married at High Mass at the Immaculate Conception Church of this city Tuesday morning at 8:30 with Fr. T. J. Flanigan officiating. The bride was accompanied to the alter by her father, Shap R. Hunter, Jr., where the bridal party was met by the groom and best man. The attendants were Miss Evelyn Huntomobiles and went to work as an

The church was beautifully decorated with summer garden flowers and presented a beautiful appearance to the many relatives and friends who were present. The bride wore a dress of white crepe with hat and accessories to harmonize, and carried a beautiful bouquet of Ophelia Roses. The bride's attendant also wore white crepe and carried a bouquet of La-France Roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shap R. Hunter, Jr., of this city, and formerly attended the Immaculate Conception school here. After completing the course she was graduated from Loretto College, Webster Groves. She accepted the position as secretary with Sharpe & Baynes, and later when her parents moved to Sikeston, she accepted a position with the Scott County Milling Co. For the past year and a half, she has been employed in the County Clerk's office in this city. She is a popular lady and has many friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Rolwing of Charleston. He is employed as a bookkeeper for Whitehead-Davis Cotton and Grain Co. of that city. He is a graduate of the Catholic school at Charleston, and has many friends in this district.

After the ceremony, a breakfast was served to the bridal party and relatives were present at the bride's home, after which the young couple left for Memphis and other southern points. They will make their home in Charleston. Their many friends wish for them a happy life throughout their career.

REV. J. A. DUNCAN RECALLED AS PASTOR

Rev. J. A. Duncan was recalled again last Thursday night as pastor of the lcoal Nazarene church. This is the beginning of the fifth year for Rev. and Mrs. Duncan with the church and their work has been so successful that not a vote was cast against them returning to the church for another year. Sikestonians are glad indeed to have Rev. and Mrs. Duncan remain here.

TROOPERS HERE GET NINE SETS OF HANDCUFFS

Nine sets of "bracelets" or handcuffs were received Thursday morning at Troop E Highway Patrol Headquarters here, as added regular equipment of State Highway Patrolmen in this division.

The new manacles, a Missouri product, are of the latest "flash" type, giving very litle freedom to the person on whom they are used. Instead of being connected with a short chain, the "cuffs" are in one piece, holding the wrists of the prisoner about two inches apart. They are to be worn on the belt in a flap leather holster.

Benton, June 14.—Henry Clay Watkins, Jr., of Benton will leave Sunday night for St. Louis to attend the Confederate veterans' reunion in Richmond, Va., June 21 to 24. NEGRO DRIVERS HIT WAGON LOAD OF FOLKS RETURNING FROM CHURCH

New Madrid, June 15.—Willie Glass, colored of near Marston, was taken into custody Sunday night by Deputy Harris, Constable Wilkins, and Chief of Poplic Babcock, after it had been reported that a hit-and-run driver had run into a wagon and team near Marston.

In the pursuit that followed, two negroes, Glass and Blum Boren, were apprehended near Portageville in an intoxicated condition with the wrecked machine. Boren, badly cut, was in the machine, while Glass was laying on the ground beside it. They admitted the charge, but contended they could give no assistance, so drove on.

They were lodged in the County jail, and later Boren, who was only an occupant of the car, was released, while Glass will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

No one was injured, except Boren, but one mule had to be killed as a result of a broken and crushed leg and perhaps the second mule will have to be killed later, depending on the extent of his injuries. All occupants of the wagon were negroes, who had attended church and were returning home.

CHECK TAX MAY COST SIKESTON $1500 MONTH

On and after Tuesday next week, June 21, each check written in the United States will cost two pennies more—a government tax found necessary by those in control, to balance the Federal budget.

There will be no stamps. Each bank is to work out its own particular system of keeping books on the number of checks written, and of making remittances to the government. But no matter what system is used, the writer of the check will find his account debited two cents for each check written, payment to the government being made by the bank once a month.

One Sikeston bank has worked out its system of keeping books on the new tax. As each check is presented for payment the banker stamps the words "U. S. tax 2c" across the face of the check. As the item is posted in the ledger the account is debited two cents more than the face of the check, and each evening the amount due the government is carefully computed.

One local banker estimated that both banks in the city would remit approximately $1500 per month or $18,000 per year tax to the government provided the present volume of business continues to be carried on by check.

Next meeting place will be announced later.

MADRID YOUTHS HELD FOR MALDEN ROBBERY

Two Six Guns and Bottle of Brew Found in Car by Sheriff

New Madrid, June 15.—Ross Gregory and Joseph Earl of New Madrid were taken into custody Sunday afternoon on complaint of Dunklin County authorities who phoned Sheriff A. F. Stanley that a hold-up had been committed in Malden Saturday night in which a citizen had been relieved of $50, his watch and one shotgun.

A description given the sheriff led to the arrest of Gregory and Earl, who were driving about the city in a green Essex, accompanied by three girls.

A search of the car revealed that the boys had a can of alleged iced home brew in the rear seat. Earl was sitting on a .38 revolver, while a .45 revolver was found in the side pocket of the machine, near Gregory. The larger gun as well as a suit of overalls found later, were identified by the Malden victim.

Harvey Gunn, released alst week on parole from the State Penitentiary after serving a six-year term for shooting the Sheriff of Dunklin County some time ago, was also taken into custory in connection with the affair.

One of the trio has positively been identified. A preliminary hearing was scheduled to be held in Malden, Wednesday.

Annie Williams, Gertie Cleaves and Juanita Gunn were lodged in jail by Sheriff Stanley Tuesday on a charge of vagrancy, when it was alleged that the sheriff entered Williams' home investigating the hold-up in which Gregory, Earl and Harvey Gunn featured and found the women drinkin~ brew and liquor. All will be given a hearing Wednesday before Squire Knott. At present they are in the County jail.

SHOE FACTORY PRODUCTION INCREASE SEEN

International Plant Here Will Operate Within 65 to 70 Pct. Capacity

W. L. Huters, manager of the Sikeston International Shoe Company factory here today confirmed a rumor to the effect that the plant would in the near future increase production approximately 50 per cent, and within a month would be operating at 65 to 70 per cent of capacity.

At the present time approximately 450 workmen and women are employed full time or part time at the plant. The increased schedule will mean full time work for all present employees and the recalling of former employes, laid off temporarily when production schedules slumped.

With the exception of a recent short shut-down, the Sikeston shoe factory has been unusually fortunate in keeping the door open and at least a part time, limited production schedule in effect. Several hundred employees, while not employed full time, have managed to earn a living wage in Sikeston when other plants operated by the "largest shoe company in the world" were shut down.

It is really remarkable the many tricks he can perform on this simple contraption with a dexterous twist of the wrist, that one cannot afford to miss seeing him. Come boys and girls and learn some fine points of yo-yoing.

NO BALL GAME SCHEDULED SUNDAY

There will be no official Sikeston team ball game next Sunday, although announcement to that effect was made by one newspaper in Sikeston last week-end. THE WET G. O. P PLANK AS PASSED

After hours of debate and argument the following plank was submitted and passed by the Republican National Convention in Chicago late Wednesday night.

"We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provision of which, while retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow States to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the federal government to protect those States where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

"Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the States by Congress, to be acted upon by State conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions or article V of the constitution, and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative".

Our colored friends over Southeast Missouri should study the life of Abraham Lincoln, their patron saint, well before being led by mercenaries as their forbears were a century ago, and voted for the benefit of some politician who is paid to corral and deliver them as so many cattle. The life of Lincoln shows that he was a man of humble birth, who endured all the hardships of a poor boy fighting for the right to live. In spite of all handicaps he attained the highest position in the gift of the Nation. At Washington he was snubbed by the aristocrats, the men of money, and insulted by his own cabinet who looked on him as an inferior being. In spite of all this he was the one shining light of his day. His heart and every thought was with the people and for the people—not the aristocrats who ruled with money and social power. He was elected as a Republican, but Republicans of his day was not the same as now, and we feel certain that if living at this time, he would be a Democrat because he would be for those in distress.

Col. Bennett C. Clark has been advised that the War Veterans Political Club, an organization with members throughout Northeast Missouri, is actively supporting his candidacy for U. S. Senator. It is expected, Clark's campaign managers say, that the action taken by the Northeast Missouri veterans will be followed by endorsements of simliar groups in other sections of the State.

Now let me tell you. If we were a candidate for State office, it would tickle us pink to have the backing of the Pendergast Kansas City Machine. At the same time, the thing that doesn't appeal to the ordinary voter is the fact that a majority of the candidates running for State office are from Kansas City or that section of the State. It is not fair to other sections and that is the reason for the antagonism over most of the State to the Pendergast Machine. We expect to support every man nominated on the Democratic ticket at the primray because, in the past, the Democrats have stood for the things best for the poor man. And we have hopes the shadow of Thomas Jefferson will have the right effect on future legislation.

Once in a while there is a rift in the clouds that lets a flood of sunlight in upon a darkened and money-grabbing world. An Ohio man postponed the spring opening of his roller coaster to accommodate a pair of robins that were raising a family in a nest built on the tracks.

In former years the pickpocket was a pest to be feared at any important gathering such as fairs and circuses. The Republican administration has taken that fear out of the system of most men as well as lifting the wallet out of their pocket.

England has just distributed about 250 million dollars as interest on some of her war loan bonds. Uncle Sam will have to be contented with the compliment that was paid to the patient several hundred years ago, by the English poet Milton: "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Three persons clearly got the worst of it this week. A drunken Washington woman hailed a police car for a taxi, a Michigan cracksman blew an empty safe, and a New York baby had to undergo an appendicitis operation before he was forty minutes old.

The old folks come to the front in the current print. Jugoslavia reports a peasant 127 years old. Nothing is said of him saving that he died. England has a church warden who can attend to the duties of his office at 99. Chicago does not make much of a showing in the age column by referring to a man of 78, yet it may be that the Chicago patriarch, though a little short on years, should be stepped to the head of the list. He has run one auto since 1924, in order to save a little loose cash with which to buy meals for the children of the poor.

June 13, 1932

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Gentlemen:

I wish to answer an item of criticism which appeared in the Lilbourn Banner published in Lilbourn, New Madrid County, on date of June 9. It seems that Editor Lloyd feels that he has been slighted by the Circuit Clerk and myself in the matter of placing orders for supplies. Mr. Underwood, no doubt, has good reason for placing his order for supplies with you. I have excellent reasons for placing my order with you, or with anyone else whom I may care to patronize. And I certainly have good reasons for not placing my order with the Lilbourn Banner.

It is true that I am a Republican, elected on the Republican ticket to the office which I now hold. However, I refuse to become a part of any one man's political machine and to be a source of profit to him through any contracts I may have to let from this office. I owe it to the people of my county to place orders for supplies where the service, quality and prices are the best. If Editor Lloyd cares to challenge my discretion on either of these grounds, he is welcome to do so.

I am,
Very truly yours,
HERSCHEL W. WARD,
County Assessor.

NEWSPAPERMAN FOR CONGRESS

Holliway is 42 years old, a native of Springfield, Mo., and now is in charge of the Jefferson City bureaus of the Kansas City Journal-Post and the St. Louis Times. He has been in active newspaper work twenty-two years. When a member of the old St. Louis Republic staff he was sent to jail in Jefferson City forty days for contempt of court because he refused to violate a confidence and divulge the source of a story telling about grand jury indictments in state graft cases. He is married and the father of two children.

Briefly, he stands for: Permanently balancing the budget by reducing expenditures of government; 10 per cent reduction in the salary of all government employees, including congressmen; abolition of the Farm board and all tax-eating commissions which are draining the treasury; opposed to cancellation of foreign debts; opposed to employment of relatives on government payroll; adoption of the Canadian system for control of the liquor traffic as a substitute for the eighteenth amendment and against the return of the old saloon; opposed to government being in private business.

They Say—Says The Man About Town

By ART L. WALLHAUSEN

Over in Illinois someone swiped a 250-pound bell. Which indicates something or other.

Now that the Republican keynoter has keynoted we, with the rest of the country, are beginning to wonder what he said.

We understand that the statement was made that had the Democrats been in power there sure would have been a panic. Which should be answere at Chicago next week in two famous last words: "Oh, yeah?"

Missourians charged with the responsbiility of manufacuring a lighted map of the State for the World's Fair next year are having difficulty in selecting the primary product of each county we are told.

Inborn modesty forbids our saying anything, but in a spurt of helpfulness to the committee we suggest that a certain twice-a-week newspaper published in Sikeston is one of the outstanding, primary products of Scott County.

The girl who insists on rpooning with every fellow that comes along ought to be backed into a woodshed and relieved of her overflow of affection with a No. 11 slipper, laid carelessly across the hiplets. We would sooner see the girl kiss a blind shoat through a barbed wire fence than have her change partners seven nights a week. It is harder to marry off a girl who has been pawed over by everyone in the community thas it is to fatten a sheep on pineapple ice. You can't goldbrick a suitor with second-hand goods, any more than you can fit a bath robe on a goat.

Which is just about as it is, but we wonder who burned up Mr. X and why?

Judge Myers has found the meanest man in the world. It seems as though a man past the three score years and ten mark who in years gone by has worked hard and toiled much, is now feeble and to make matters worse, slightly mentally unbalanced. Very recently, he lost his job as farm laborer on a farm near the Stoddard County line, and traveled as best he could on funds donated by friends, to the home of his son in Tennessee.

This week the son loaded his aged father into the family model T, drove to Missouri, stopped the car in the neighborhod of the old man's former haunts and there abandoned him as one might a cur dog or a stray cat. The tortures of hades should be too mild for a cuss like that.

IN THE RANKS OF THE WET PATRIOTS

Rev. Dewey Short, a Methodist minister until he heard the call of politics, now announces that he will be a candidate for the United States Senate and, if successful, will devote himself to the task of seeing that people are permitted to "enjoy the temperate use of pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices". If the Reverend Dewey were still a pastor of a flock he would probably busy himself seeing that his membership was guaranteed at all times a supply of pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices, because over in the Ozarks, where he has done his religious work, alcoholic beverages are known as mountain dew, a brew that makes men whip their mothers. Naturally a minister should be interested in toning down an essential household commodity that carries such a wallop.

The Rev. Dewey says he is fighting for "decent living" conditions. This thing of a man or boy having to sneak around for a drink of booze is terrible, and then being compelled to accept hooch of questionable quality at high prices is still more terrible. This condition has brought ruination upon our great country and scores of preachers and politicians are numbered among the unemployed. So the Rev. Dewey wants only good liquor sold, and the prices must be fair. Then, we assume, a congregation at a Sunday morning service would not be in a belligerent mood, men would not be anxious to whip their mothers, but would be mellowed and inspired and happy in the thought that it didn't take their last cent and that they hadn't violated the law. Happy days are coming to the boys and men of this country if such patriotic statesmen can only carry out their plans.

How fine it will be when mothers are assured that their husbands and sons have free access to "pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices". This will also give assurance that young people will no longer have a hard time hunting up booze for their parties and then have to pay exorbitant prices. The Rev. Dewey says he will work for a modification that will enable everybody to "enjoy the temperate use" of quality liquor and they may enjoy it all the more in the satisfaction that no one has made a large profit in the business. Doubtless the clergy in general will flock to the support of the Rev. Dewey in his efforts to bring back to the homes of America free and unrestrained use of this great commodity, and parents who are ambitious to have their sons and daughters exercise their personal liberty unrestrained, and possibly become famous in handling of the stuff, will not only rush to the polls to vote for him but will sing his praises forever. Not many preachers are so thoughtful of the welfare of the people.

In his forthcoming struggle for "decent living and good government", the Rev. Dewey will have to defeat a wet of his own kind and also a perpetual wet. Robert Kratky, a young man who claims to have found Victor Miller and elected him mayor of St. Louis, has discovered that he is now wet. He also would return the country to a state of great prosperity thru legalized booze. Kratky is reported to be running for the Senate to beat former Mayor Henry Kiel, and to do this it probably behooved him to follow the course of others who believe there are more wet votes than dry votes.

Former Mayor Kiel of St. Louis, who has been before the public many years, is known as a conservative man. He has always been wet and has always been temperate in his activities.

The Republican voters may take their choice between these three men—one wet and two who seem able to adjust themselves to meet the occasion, whatever it may be. —Southeast Missourian.

TALKING CROW SHOT ACCIDENTLY BY OWNER

Several weesk ago Sikeston readers of a St. Louis metropolitan newspaper Sunday magazine section read of Jim, the talking crow of Fidelity, Ill., owned by Robert and Lewis Tuetken. The bird is said to have possessed unusual ability in being able to speak, and manifested other characteristics not usually attributed to birds.

But Jim, the talking crow, is dead. Robert Tuetken fired into a tree to disperse black birds that were attacking a robin's nest last Saturday and Jim fell out mortally wounded. A taxidermist is preserving the remains.

"The Budget Must Be Balanced"

So says Uncle Samuel.

Most of us will know more about it later than we do now.

In the meantime however we KNOW NOW there is a 5% tax on Majestic Electric Refrigerators and Philco Radios that goes into effect June 21st.

That means $5.00 to $10.00 additional on Majestics and $2.50 to $7.50 on Philcos.

Not such a large sum it's true but worth saving.

Electric Refrigeration is in the minds of a number of Sikeston housekeepers just now.

Those who are putting off buying are merely paying out money for ice day after day that might as well go toward paying for a Majestic.

Their engineers have profited by the mistakes of Companies that were earlier in the field.

As a resuult the Majestic is the most modern plant of it's kind in America.

CORRECT ANSWER TO THE VEXING PROBLEM
—(Lifted)

Absolute knowledge I have none
But my Aunt's washer woman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat,
Say to a fellow on the street,
That he had a letter from Dewey Short just last week,
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said the negroes in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Missouri town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South American Jews,
About somebody in Borneo,
Who heard a man who claimed to know
Of a swell society female fake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her seventh husbands' sister's niece
Had stated in a printed piece
That she has a son who has a friend
Who says keep Hoover and the depression will end.

Fine Fruit Candies

Is there anyone anywhere who doesn't prick up his ears at the words homemade candies, especially when they are made from pure sweet fruit? Children love them, because they are so good, mothers approve of them because they are wholesome. As for fathers—they like them because it is the best candy they've tasted since the old maple sugar days down on the farm.

Peach Jelly Cubes: Press an eight-ounce can of peaches through a sieve, making a purée. Add one-half cup pectin syrup (made according to directions on bottle), one-half cup sugar, one-half cup corn syrup, and one tablespoon lemon juice. Boil until thermometer registers 222 degrees. Pour into greased pans so that mixture is about one-half inch thick, and let cool. Let stand over night in a cold place. Cut in cubes and roll in powdered sugar. May also be dipped in chocolate or in melted fondant.

This Is Divine

Pineapple Divinity: Cook one-half cup shredded pineapple and three tablespoons sugar to a thick jam, 225 degrees. Mix two cups sugar, one-half cup water, and one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, and boil to 260 degrees. Just before this temperature is attained, add the pineapple jam, continuing the boiling to the 260-degree point. Beat one egg-white stiff, then add hot syrup very slowly, stirring constantly, and beating till stiff and will hold its shape. Add one-fourth cup chopped maraschino cherries, and pour into buttered pans.*

LEGS SEVERED UNDER TRAIN IN M. P. YARDS

Kenneth Martin, 17-year-old Batesville, Ark., youth, was in a critical condition at the Lucy Lee Hospital today as the result of injuries received about 6:30 Sunday morning when he was run over by a box car in the Missouri Pacific yards here. Both of the boy's legs were badly mangled that amputation near the hips was found necessary. Physicians hold out small hope for his recovery.

Martin and three other youths, Eugene Bennett, 20, of Batesville; Kennett Bennett, 17, of Batesville and Roy Cain, 21, of Cadet, Mo., were sitting on a Missouri Pacific switch track about 50 feet south of the viaduct in the lower yards, and were waiting to catch a south bound freight train, due out at 6:40 on the next track. They were facing west, with their legs between the rails and about 6 feet south of a long string of boxcars. There were 112 cars in this string which placed the northern end about opposite the Missouri Pacific freight house.

A switch engine, preparing to move the string, hooked up on the northern end and shunted the cars a short distance down the track. The other three youths were fortunate enough to roll clear of the rails but Martin did not move quickly enough and the wheels of one of the box cars passed over both his legs between the knee and hip.

Engineer M. S. Randles in charge of the switch engine at the other end of the train and several hundred feet away, had no way of seeing the boys and did not know that an accident had occurred until several minutes later.

The two Bennett boys and Cain called to railroad employes in the yards and an ambulance was summoney. Martin was rushed to the Lucy Lee Hospital, where amputation of his legs was found necessary. He rallied from the operation, but his condition all day has been critical. He suffered seriously from loss of blood and shock.

The injured boy is the son of Vester Martin of Batesville, who arrived here yesterday. He was on his way home to Batesville, after being on the road seeking employment.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

In the new tax mill, brewers wort is taxed 15 cents a gallon, malt syrup 3 cents a pound and grape concentrates 20 cents a gallno. But no additional tax is laid on corn sugar.

Wort, malt syrup and grape concentrates are materials with which the home brewers and kitchen vintners of the cities work. They produce beverages of relative mildness, beer and wine whose alcoholic content is low, unless they are fortified by complicated means usually beyond the capacitv of the kitchen operators.

Corn sugar, on the other hand, is heaven's gift to the moonshiner. It produces corn whisky with an alcoholic content of 50 per cent or better, which can be redistilled into straight alcohol. But it is rarely, if ever, employed for such purposes in the home.

The effect of the bill, therefore, seems to be to raise a sort of tariff to protect the moonshiner against the competition of the housewife, and to substitute for her mild potations the liquid fire from the blockade stills. Just what is to be gained by this policy we confess we do not know. It is another of the mysteries of prohibition.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

MAN KILLED HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER HELD

Bernie, June 13.—Willard Deniphen, aged 24, of Zalma, was struck and killed by an automobile on Highway 25 about one and a half miles north of Bernie at 1 a. m. Sunday. Floyd Moore, well known local young business man, manager of a Kroger store here, was arrested and placed in jail in default of $2000 bond, in connection with the accident.

Moore was driving a Ford coupe, it was learned here. He was found at the home of Landon Brown, where he was spending the night.

A truck load of local young people, returning from a show at Dexter, was first to learn of the accident. They reported that a coupe had passed at a rapid rate of speed.

Brown was riding with Moore when the accident occurred, he said. He was dozing, and was aroused by the impact. Brown told him, he said, he thought he had run over a box.

Occupants of the truck said Deniphen was unconscious when they reached him, and that he died within a few minutes. Another motorist, going north, sent back to Bernie for officers while the party in the truck remained in charge of the dead man until officers arrived.

Sheriff Fred Beal and Prosecuting Attorney Kip Briney of Bloomfield, and Coroner C. O. Bennett of Bell City was summoned and held an inquest at 11 a. m. Sunday, after which the young man's parents took charge of the body and returned it to their home at Zalma.

Just before the inquest, Sheriff Beal and City Marshal E. L Moore, prompted by suspicion, went to the Brown home and examined the automobile. Bits of blood, hair and flesh, and fragments of the unfortunate victim's clothing were found on the car, they said. After some questioning, Moore was arrested.

BONUS ARMY MARCH A HEALTH MENACE

The Surgeon General of the United States Public Service at Washington, D. C., has sent to all State Health Officers a warning for transmission to the cities of the United States that the concentration of the Bonus Army in Washington, where they are camped in the most insanitary and unhealthful conditions may at any moment cause an epidemic of disease which will result in its immediate spread to every community its members may visit on their return to their various States. This constitutes a great health menace to the entire nation.

Dr. James Stewart, State Health Commissioner of Missouri, desires this warning to be spread throughout Missouri, in co-operation and with the endorsement of the State Commander of the American Legion, urging that all health officers and citizens of the State co-operate in discouraging every one from joining the movement and be on the look-out for any of the present Bonus Army members spreading disease as they return. Our State Health Commissioner desires to prevent any such health hazard to the citizens of our State and advises that everyone joining this movement will not only endanger their own health but will be a potential danger to those communities visited enroute.

A $2 Dinner for 6

THE little girl who could never do fractions, sometimes finds them figuring ominously in her life after she has grown up. Dividing two by six might prove a pretty difficult problem, but here it is solved as easily as can be.

Fried Ham and Eggs 25¢
Mashed Potatoes 10¢
Fruit Cole Slaw 20¢
Chocolate Blanc Mange 15¢
Baked Tomatoes and Cheese 27¢
Bread and Butter 11¢
Coffee with Cream 15¢

A couple of these recipes to serve six people may be new to you, so here they are:

Baked Tomatoes and Cheese: Add to the contents of a No. 2 can of tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste, and one teaspoon chopped onion. You will need one-half cup grated cheese, one cup bread crumbs and one tablespoon butter. Put alternate layers of tomatoes, cheese and crumbs in a buttered baking dish, having the top layer of crumbs. Dot with butter and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

A Crisp Salad

Fruit Cole Slaw: Crisp one cup finely shredded cabbage in ice water, drain and dry thoroughly. Add one diced orange, and, just before serving, the drained crushed pineapple from an 8-ounce can. Mix in carefully one-half cup boiled dressing, and serve on lettuce."

In Arkansas 1000 dipping vats are in operation. If this hot weather continues some sort of disinfection vats will have to be operated here to kill b. o. that is met so frequently on the streets.

Let me tell you again. Those who owe us need not dodge as because they cannot, or have no intention of paying what they owe. We know conditions and we know dead beats. If all bills were paid, we could pay out of debt, help the hospital, help the churches, help the sick, help the hungry. But dodging and lying helps no one.

Bishop Cannon ought to be told of the close connection of Jos. L. Scott of California, who made the speech nominating Herbert Hoover, to the Roman Catholic church. Two of his sons are priests and this connection ought to prevent Cannon and the Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals from voting for Hoover this time.

4-H CLUBBERS ATTEND CAMP IRONDALE THIS WEEK

New Madrid, June 13.—Several of the 4-H Clubs of New Madrid County have representatives at the Southeast Missouri 4-H Club camp at Irondale this week. These camps are both educational and recreational in nature, and club members many ways of increasing the usefulness of their own local clubs. Because transportation arrangements have not been completed definite information as to the number attending this camp from New Madrid County cannot be given at this time. County Agent, Gordon B. Nance, visited the 4-H Clubs in different parts of the county last week to get acquainted with the Club leaders of the different clubs, and the work that was being done.

Parma leads the list in the number of clubs being conducted, having four clubs with 42 members. These clubs are as follows: Sewing Club 1 of which Mrs. J. H. Harpster is leader. This is the first course in sewing in which the making of the simpler garments and articles is taught has 20 members, five of these members have already completed their sewing work. Sewing Club 11 of which has finished half of the work outlined at the beginning of the club. Portageville has two clubs and Mrs. Pearl H. Wilson is leader of both. Sewing Club 1 has nine members and a Health & Sanitation Club having nine members. The purpose of this Health and Sanitation Club is to teach the health rules and to promote their practice. There is one Pig Club at Canalou of which Owen Paul is leader and it has six members. The object of this club is to demonstrate the proper methods of feeding hogs to achieve rapidity and economy of gain.

Pharris Ridge has a Meal Preparation Club of which Miss Edith Hensley is the local leader. This club studies the selection of foods for a properly balanced meal; the most healthful and appetizing methods of preparing these foods and attractive manner of serving.

These Clubs are doing excellent work. Attempts will be made to increase the number of such clubs in New Madrid County, and to increase the number of communities in which clubs are conducted. Communities interested in starting a 4-H Club can secure information and assistance by writing to the County Agent.

Mrs. D. C. Broerin is leader. This is the second course in sewing in which the making of summer clothes for girls is taught. This club has seven members, and all of them have completed their work. A Baking Club of which Mrs. Floyd Gale is the leader. This club teaches the making of bread and has six members. They have already held three meetings and have finished approximately half of their work. A Canning Club of which Mrs. Solon Gee is leader, teaches the best methods of canning fruit and vegetables. LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MATTHEWS

(Mrs. W. H. Deane)

Children's Day was observed here Sunday at the Methodist church. A fine program in the morning was rendered by the children of the Sunday school. At the noon hour a dinner of barbecued meats, chicken, salads, cakes pies and everything that goes to make a big dinner, was served to between three and four hundred people. There was lots of barbecued meats and bread left, which was sold out to be donated to the church. Mr. McCord of New Madrid addressed the people Sunday afternoon. His fine talk was much appreciated by the people. It certainly didn't look like depression had hit Matthews in going down the long lines of tables and seeing the wonderful dinner spread out. We only wish lots more people could have enjoyed this day with us.

The fine program was under the directions of Mrs. Charles Spaulding, Albert Deen, Walter Mills and Robert Binford, who wish to thank all who helped with the singing and church decorations. The dinner was under the management of Walter Mills, William Deane, Jr. They want to thank Charley Moore, Elon Proffer, Gaither Daugherty, M. G. Brooks, W. M. McGee, B. F. Swartz for the hogs donated to be barbecued, to F. D. Morgan for the goat, to Bland Hawkins and O. K. Mainord for their liberal donation of bread.

And we can't say enough in words to thank the boys and men of this place for the wonderful support given in building the fine arbor, getting wood, helping to prepare the meats and doing everything to make this dinner one of the finest and most successful ever had here. Mr. Mills and Mr. Deane wish to thank all the merchants for their hearty co-operation. We want to thank the people of the Christian church for showing us so much courtesy. Rev. Margrave closed this wonderful day with a fine sermon Sunday night.

Mrs. Don Kochel of Canalou was here Sunday.

Mrs. Herman Hill and daughter, Miss Rachel, Miss Hazel Mitchell, and Miss Haggaman of Hayti spent the week-end here with friends and attended the children's day celebration.

Mrs. Victor Mallburne and daughter of Caruthersville were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. James Huls, last week. Miss Geraldine Huls accompanied her aunt home for a week's visit.

We are needing rain badly around here now, west and south of us. The farmers have had two wonderful rains. Around Kewanee farmers haven't been able to plow since Wednesday, two miles west of Matthews, fine rains have fallen and the crops are looking fine. Lots of corn is being laid by and is wonderful looking for this time of the year. Corn on the prairie is needing rain badly, some is beginning to burn. Truck patches are burning badly. The potatoe crops are very good. Cotton looks good. Owing to dry weather, the farmers have been able to keep it clean. Farmers say wheat is much better than they expected, if they could only get a good price.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO PARTY'S CHOICE

New York, June 13.—Whatever the outcome of the Democratic national convention, the leaders of the party, including the unsuccessful presidential candidates, "will get behind the nominee and support him loyally".

This was the declaration of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jouett Shouse, Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. James M. Cox, John W. Davis and 54 other leaders today as they joined in a united appeal for completion of the party's $1,500,000 victory fund before opening of the convention in Chicago on June 27. The appeal was described as one of "practical politics".

"Now, when neither candidate nor platform is known, when neither gratification at the selection of an individual nor disappointment at the defeat of others can have its influence, is the time of all times for members of the organization to display their party patriotism", said the joint message.

FACE PRELIMINARY FOR TIMBER THEFT

Dexter, June 13.—The preliminary hearing of Alfred Mayberry and S. P. Tribble, charged with stealing timber, set for Friday before Justice W. C. Keaton and Justice Frank Utley, was transferred to Judge C. A. Crane by change of venue and will be heard June 17.

Malberry and Tribble were arrested last Sunday morning by Officre Clay D. Burns at their home south of Gray Ridge, charged with stealing catalpa timber from the farm of F. R. Patterson, near Dexter. They were taken to the county jail, but were released when each made $1000 bond. Mayberry recently served a short term in the State penitentiary for having stolen sunflower seed.

OLD DISTILLERY WAREHOUSE BURNS

A mammoth storehouse on the old J. R. Hogg farm, that in prohibition days was used as a warehouse for the old Hogg Distillery, was destroyed by fire early this morning together with 1500 bales of hay and about 150 bushels of corn.

The building belonged to P. T. Nance and the corn and hay to Edmund Hogg. Hogg had only $100 insurance and Nance had none. The structure, erected possibly 30 years ago, was built of solid oak, was 60x100 feet, of massive construction and made an extremely hot fire. The newly constructed residence of J. H. Fisher, a short distance west of the building, was saved by Poplar Bluff firemen who took the chemical truck to the scene. The blaze attracted throngs from miles around.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

THE BEST KIND OF BABY

THE best kind of baby is the baby that sleeps soundly, and sleeps when it should—the kind that yells vigorously when hungry, and eats with gusto when fed—the kind that responds to your advances with coos and bubbles and a wide smile of delight. Do you know how to make yours that kind of baby?

If more mothers knew that babies are almost literally what they eat (and what their mothers eat) there would be fewer sick babies. The importance of the right kind of food cannot be over-estimated, and the right kind of food, for both baby and mother, must contain plenty of vitamins.

What Every Mother Knows

Every modern mother knows how necessary sieved vegetables are to supplement milk in the diet of babies. If there be any mother who doubts this, she need only ask her doctor. Such an eminent authority on babies, for example, as Dr. William McKim Marriott, B.S., M.D., states that beginning with the fifth or sixth month the breast-fed infant should be given once a day a purée of spinach, carrots or mixed vegetables in amounts of one to two tablespoonfuls.

Mary Swartz Rose, Ph.D., suggests a tablespoonful of sifted spinach and carrot pulp for breast-fed babies at seven months. And, since these suggestions have been published, other physicians have found that sieved vegetables are tolerated by infants at two months or even younger.

But cooking and sieving fresh vegetables in the home kitchen is a long, tedious and wasteful job. A greater quantity of vegetable than is necessary is purchased and prepared. When brought home from the market, that part of the vegetable which is not good must be thrown away, and this may amount to 10 or 20 per cent. of the vegetable bought. Or, perhaps the quantity prepared at once will not keep, and the mother decides later not to use it again.

What Every Mother Doesn't Know

What every mother doesn't know is that home preparation usually destroys a good part of the important vitamins, and that she can now get sieved vegetables in cans scientifically prepared so that they retain more vitamins than those prepared at home.

With these sieved vegetables there is no picking over, no throwing away, no long cooking, no mashing, no sieving, no straining. They come all ready to warm and serve, and are of a consistency suitable for infant digestions.

The best brands of these convenient baby foods have been endorsed by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, and are allowed to use its seal of acceptance on their cans. This means that the scientists of the American Medical Association have independently checked every step of their processing.

However, every producer of these foods will tell you that no mother should think of feeding her baby anything which was not recommended by her own physician who prescribes his diet. So be sure, before including any of these new puréed foods in your baby's diet, to ask your doctor about quantities and his advice about using them.

With Scientific Care

Some of these sieved vegetables are seasoned, and some are not. One brand, which is put up in sanitary enamel lined cans, carries on its label a guarantee of the exact amounts of vitamins A, B and C which its sieved vegetables contain. And the proof that this guarantee is absolutely dependable and means exactly what it says lies in the fact that this is one of the brands which has been accepted by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, and is allowed to use its seal of acceptance on the cans.

Biological assays of the finished products of this brand made by Dr. Walter H. Eddy of Teachers College, Columbia University, have determined not only the exact vitamin potency of each, but also that each provides a generous supply of proteins, calories and mineral salts.

Safer and More Sanitary

These sieved vegetables of various brands offered to mothers not merely to save them time, trouble and expense, but to provide them with a better, safer and more sanitary product than they can make at home, now include spinach, carrots, green beans, tomatoes, green peas, prunes, vegetable soup and purées of mixed vegetables.

tory and is expected to remain at the hospital ten days longer. Miss Klingel is 14 years old.

Mrs. Martha Crenshaw of Bertrand, who was operated on 12 days ago for appendicitis, is doing fine. It is expected that she will be released in a week.

Mrs. W. E. Payne is getting along fine. Mrs. Payne is the daughter of the editor and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, and lives at Ballston, Va.

CAIRO OWES WAGE BILL TO WORKERS

Cairo, June 14.—Default in $27,300 of principal and interest on city bond issues due July 1 is threatened Commission Alexander Wilson has announced. The city now is four months behind in meeting its current expenses.

Five of the 20 special assessments are overdrawn and there will be special assesment bonds amounting to $52,000 to meet July 1, Wilson says. The city will have only $20,000 to apply on this.

The commissioner is trying to arrange a loan to provide funds to pay a portion of the delinquent salaries of city employes who have not had a pay day since February 1.

At present operation of the city government is costing $8000 a month, and there is agitation for economies. Mayor Bode has asserted that it may be necessary to dispense with important city services.

One-fourth of the city's current expenses are for the fire department, garbage collection, street lighting and water.

Mayor Bode has appealed to Cairo residents to pay their taxes, asserting that there are fewer delinquencies among county residents.

Rescuing Bread Pudding

NOW often you have heard the peevish words: "Oh, I hate that old bread pudding!" Here are two ways to rescue bread puddings from such condemnation and make it not a penalty but a delight:

Hawaiian Bread Pudding: Scald two cups milk, add one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, and pour over two cups stale bread (pieces not crumbs), letting it stand until soft and milk taken up by the bread. Add two beaten eggs, and pour into a large shallow baking dish. Lay the drained slices from a No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple over the top, and bake in a slow oven, 350°, for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves eight very liberally. Serve with the following

Sauce: Smooth together one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup cold water. Heat the syrup from the pineapple, add, and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg.

Try Whole Wheat

Pineapple Pudding: Toast four slices of whole wheat bread, butter and cut into small squares. Place in bottom of a baking dish and pour over the drained fruit from half of a No. 2 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Beat one egg, add four tablespoons sugar, one cup milk and a few grains of nutmeg and pour over. Bake in a slow, 350°, oven for about forty minutes. Serve warm with sauce made by stirring together the pineapple syrup and some heavy cream. This serves six.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

ELEANOR BOARDMAN'S hobby is a feminine and rather charming one. It is her home in Beverley Hills—an interest which naturally appeals to her since she studied art in New York and began a promising career as an interior decorator before she went into pictures.

She planned every detail of her house which contains many rare and beautiful objects—colorful old tapestries, valuable paintings by masters and moderns and scores of interesting small objects, each carefully chosen for the spot it occupies. She even designed and had especially built most of the furniture which is modern in tone but adapted to the livable charm of the whole scheme.

Her hospitality is marked with this same love of beautiful effect. She loves to have friends drop in for tea and delights in bedecking a tea table. If the flowers are pink roses in a silver bowl, there will be pink and white bon bons in a graceful silver compote. If she uses her Wedgwood cups—a choice possession—and fills a Wedgwood vase with spring flowers, candies in a shallow bowl echo the pastel shades. Little open-faced sandwiches, which she loves to invent, often aid the color scheme with the pale orange of Russian caviar, bright red or green pepper strips, the yellow of egg slices and the scarlet of ripe tomatoes.

Eleanor Boardman manages to pack into her busy days two other exacting hobbies—painting and piano playing. She also swims and plays both tennis and golf with better than average skill. Her only pets are two bird dogs and, when time and opportunity permit, she will desert her charming home for a hunting lodge where she wears rough clothes and hiking boots and gives her dogs plenty of excitement.

Such leisure as is left from all these activities she is likely to spend in her library, indulging a very genuine taste for good literature. She is distinguished for her wit and her gems of repartee are quoted in Hollywood much as Dorothy Parker is quoted in New York though Miss Boardman's humor is of a kindlier, less cynical sort.

As I See It—

The intersection nearly always presents a number of hangers-on who might be persuaded to ride, but Wednesday found an unusual aggregation of humanity present. There were three collitch boys, all freshly laundried in linen pantaloons, three negro men, and two honest knights of the road.

If you, too, have admired the ease and poise of Robert Montgomery on the screen, it might be of interest to note that for the first sixteen years of his life he had every facility of riches at his command. Robert is, therefore, quite at home in social situations.

At the close of the first sixteen years of his life, Robert's father decided to end his life with two revolver shots. After that, young Robert gave up his yachts, his polo ponies and his expensive automobiles and went to work as an oiler of freight engines in a railroad roundhouse.

The Standard office was greatly honorded Thursday by a call from Aunt Jane Peal of Blodgett, who is 81 years old and is as spry as anyone. She was born in Kentucky, but has lived in Missouri 75 years. In politics she is a Democrat and proud of it and for Wade Anderson for sheriff.

Among some of the Big Things that Sikeston is proud of are the International Shoe Factory, The Bank of Sikeston, Tom Allen, the Municipal Light Plant, the State Highway Division 10, The Scott County Mill Co., The Sikeston Standard, Jim Philes, and we would mention the Federal Building if it were not so far out of town.

* * *

Only a few words spoken by W. L. Huters, manager of the International Shoe Factory, here today, made workers smile, and business men beam. 'The local factory will soon increase production to near capacity". Not a very long statement, but just as full of meaning for Sikeston as Silent Cal's famous pronouncement about running was to the Republican party back in 1928. There was a time when some people snubbed a job, when they worked if they felt like it, and laid off when they didn't That has not been the case in recent years in Sikeston or naywhere else. Men want to work, and the announcement that work will soon be available again at the factory here is being met with joy. For the workers it means more pay and more pay means buying a few of the extras that make life worth living. And it means also the laying up of a savings fund against a possible slump in production in the months to come. Sikeston is glad to hear this bit of news.

Better Breakfasts

MANY schools serve their pupils milk or chocolate in the middle of the morning. They do it, because the average child, regardless of family circumstances, does not have a nourishing breakfast at home. That ought to make mothers stop and think. The truth is that every child, and every adult as well, ought to have a good substantial breakfast before he leaves the house. Here is a better breakfast that will make breakfast planning easy.

Grapefruit and Apricot Compote
Hot or Cold Breakfast Cereal
Bacon with Fried Bananas
Popovers Hot Beverage

This breakfast contains plenty of fruit, as it should to be dietetically correct and start the day right, and it is quite simple to prepare. But perhaps you don't know how to make the compote, so here's the recipe.

Chill one No. 2 can of grapefruit and one 8-ounce can of apricots separately in the ice box over night. In the morning combine them, and serve in glass fruit dishes. You may add a sprig of fresh mint, for an additional touch, and fresh grapefruit may be used in place of the canned, but in that case you must add sugar to taste. This recipe will serve six people.

Good Coffee

Coffee is the almost universal American breakfast beverage. Good coffee means coffee that has retained all of its flavor and aroma, and that means any of the brands of coffee that come in "vacuum packed" cans.

CHAPTER VIII

The Bronx was beginning its early morning activities. A woman was raising a cloud of dust sweeping off the front stoop of an apartment house. A milkman ran up the steps from the basement entrance to the apartment house in which Mike Thomas lived. His horse started up before the milkman had climbed into the wagon. Mike came out of the garage next door, whistling gaily. Two or three children stared at him in silence, not even returning his greeting.

Herman, the janitor, was mopping the steps. He looked up without speaking as Mike came bounding up.

"Great morning,' ain't it?" laughed Mike.

"Yeah, yeah, it is," agreed the janitor, soberly, "had a good night?"

"Swell—swell. And maybe I ain't ready for the hay!"

The janitor's eyes followed Mike as he ran up the first flight of stairs, still whistling, then, stepping carefully, followed him. When he heard Mike unlock his door and go in, Herman ascended the second flight to find Mrs. Weis, the Jewish woman who had offered to care for little Mike when the police took Mary away, opening the door of her apartment and looking after Mike.

"Nobody ain't disgraced—nobody. You get that! Mary ain't that kind of a girl.

"Did you tell him?" she asked.

"No. I somehow . . . just couldn't. I didn't have the heart."

"Somebody's got to tell him."

"Yes," agreed Herman, heavily, "somebody's got to tell him."

Little Mike was in his crib, sitting up, hanging on to the crosspiece, his legs thrust through the bars, wiggling with sheer happiness. He heard a sound at the door, the clicking sound that usually meant his father was coming home and he began an up-and-down wiggling indicative of joy. The door opened and big Mike's head appeared and then his body. Little Mike grinned and began to crow with joy.

"Shut up, you big brute," said Mike, laying a finger on his lip, "you'll wake your mother." His hoarsely whispered words were much louder than the baby's crowing, and much more calculated to wake a sleeping woman. He gave the baby a finger to hold, grinning amiably until the child started to bite at the finger to which he clung.

"No, you don't, young fella! I haven't got a thimble on! Where's your ma? Still sleeping?"

The baby jumped up and down, ecstatically happy at the attention being paid to him. He cooed and gurgled with delight. Mike leaned down and picked up his son.

"I'll bet you kept her awake all night, you little devil. Be quiet now, and we'll get our own breakfast. She's closed her bedroom door so I wouldn't wake her."

He took the child into the kitchen, opened a quart bottle of milk, poured a glass for himself and some more into a pan, which he set aside for a moment, while he started his own breakfast, before heating it for little Mike. He found some bacon and eggs in the refrigerator, put the bacon on to fry and some coffee on to boil, turning every now and then to talk to the baby, who scarcely took his eyes off the man he meant when he said "da-da-da."

"My, don't that bacon smell good, Mike? And the coffee! You'd like some, wouldn't you? Well, you just wait and you shall have some—if you wait long enough!' A year maybe. And now you just watch your daddy and learn how to fry eggs. Always fry them in bacon grease and they get all nice and brown around the edges. See the egg fall out of the shell when I crack it like this?. . . See, ain't that a pretty sight for a hungry man? No? Well, just for that, I won't give you a single taste! Milk's all you're gonna get."

While the eggs were frying he heated the milk for the baby, scalded the nipple in a pan of boiling water, washed his hands thoroughly, poured the milk into the bottle and adjusted the nipple.

"There you are, Your Highness; that'll put hair on your chest—and teeth in your mouth. Fall to, eat hearty, and I'll do the same."

He placed two arm chairs together and laid little Mike down in them and gave him the nursing bottle. The child kicked up his heels, rubbing his feet together while he sucked at the nipple. Mike himself fell to with the heartiness of hunger, looking at his son occasionally as the child cooed his satisfaction at getting the warm milk into his little stomach.

When he had finished eating, Mike stretched lazily, settled himself comfortably in his chair.

"We'll just let mother have her sleep out for once" he said. "You get her up often enough in the night, don't you? Well, you can just be satisfied at keeping your daddy company for a spell."

He closed his eyes and was soon breathing in the slow and regular suspiration of sleep. The baby, too, fell asleep, the nipple half in his mouth.

There was little noise in the street, except for the rumbling now and then of a passing elevated train or street car when a covered police patrol wagon backed up to the prison door. A minute or two later the door was opened and about a dozen women, some old, some young, walked solemnly to the wagon and climbed in. Then there was a wait, a silence which was broken after a time by the hysterical weeping of a woman from inside the prison door. The burly figure of a keeper then appeared, half carrying, half dragging Mary Thomas. She was struggling to break away from him, to go back into the prison. A prison guard appeared and between them Mary was bustled into the wagon. She grasped the handle of the wagon door and clung so tenaciously, weeping the while, that the guard had to force her fingers loose one by one. When he had succeeded and pushed her into a seat, he himself took the last seat, breathing audibly, and closed the door.

The patrol wagon started up as the bell in a nearby church tower struck the hour of seven.

Mike Thomas was awakened by the striking of the kitchen clock. He rubbed the sleep from his eyes and looked at the clock. It was just seven. Time for Mary to get up—any way time for him to get to bed. The baby began to pull himself up by the arms of the chair when Mike got up, and he took the child and tossed him to his shoulder.

"Come on, Mike; we'll go and wake up your ma. She'll scold us if we let her sleep too long."

The bedroom door was pulled to but not latched, as he had thought. But instead of going in, he knocked softly on it.

"Can a couple of gents say good morning?"

He waited for an answer, but none came. He threw the door open, saw the vacant bed, with the covers turned back, but the sheets unwrinkled, the pillow with a dent. He stood there aghast for a moment, then entered and at sight of his wife's night dress, ready to be put on, or folded away, he laughed.

"Key, kid; what do you think this is? April fool?"

He went softly to the door of the closet, leaned forward and said suddenly in a big voice:

"Come out, Fly! All is discovered!"

Still there was no reply, and Mike looked around uneasily. He opened the closet door. There was his best suit and Mary's dresses, but no Mary. He turned away, puzzled and irresolute; took the baby from his shoulder and tucked him under one arm.

"Mary!" he called, and there was an undertone of anxiety in his voice. He waited for a reply, then called again, imperatively, and waited with traces of increasing nervousness. The shades were down and the room, being on a court, was gloomy and dark. He went to the window and started to raise the shade. It slipped from his fingers and clattered up against the top of the window frame with a great noise. He looked around the room again; it was unnaturally quiet; he could hear the ticking of the clock in the sitting room.

"Mary!" he called, loudly; "Mary! Mary!" Panic had come into his voice, and the child began to whimper.

"It's all right, Mike. I didn't mean to scare you. Of course, she got up and, finding us both asleep in the kitchen, like a pair of boobs, went out marketing without waking us. Maybe she's coming up the stairs now. We'll go and meet her, shall we?"

As he opened the door into the hallway he found a cluster of people there. A couple of children scurried inside their own flats their eyes visible between the nearly-closed door and the jamb. The janitor was one of the group in the hallway. Mike gave a kind of grin as he saw him.

"Say, Herman, did my wife leave any message with you when she went out?"

"No," said Herman, slowly. "No, she didn't."

Mike was uneasy at the alertness of the eyes of his fellow apartment dwellers. They stared at him peculiarly.

"That's funny. She didn't leave any sort of message for me. Did you see her when she went out, Herman?"

"No; no, I didn't," replied the janitor, quickly.

"Ain't she home, Mr. Thomas," a woman with bleached hair and protruding eyeballs, whom he knew vaguely, asked with an eager curiosity.

"If she was home I wouldn't be askin' when she went out, would I?"

Mike began to become conscious of the covert stares of the half dozen persons in the hallway, the eagerness with which they watched him and his uneasiness increased.

"What are you all lookin' so funny for. What's happened?"

"Why, nothing—very much, Mike," replied Herman, as he encountered Mike's glance fixed directly on him. He shifted uneasily from one foot to the other.

Mike strode quickly to the janitor, laid a hand on his shoulder and gave him a slight shake.

"What are you keeping back from me? Was Mary taken sick or something?"

"No, nothing like that," the janitor assured him in sudden eagerness. "No, she's all right. She did have to go out for a little while, but I guess she'll be right back."

"Stop stalling, Herman! What's happened to my wife?"

"The. . . ." Herman stooped and recovered his cap. "The cops took her, Mike."

"What!" The incredulity on Mike's face was ludicrous but nobody laughed.

"The cops took her," repeated Herman.

Mike's face turned sickly-looking with fright.

"Herman, I told you not to drink any more of that bathtub gin. It's bound to get you. You ain't so funny, you know."

"I ain't been drinking, Mike. A cop come in and took her out of the room because—well, Mike, you gotta get it—because there was a man in her room and they was both of 'em undressed, and——" Suddenly his voice rose to a shriek before the menace in Mike's face and in his upraised fist. "Don't hit me, Mike! Please don't hit me!"

The rage on Mike Thomas's face was terrible to see. Two of the women drew back from him as far as they could—tight up against the wall, but none made a move to leave the hallway.

"Then quit your lyin' about her!" Mike said. By an effort he got control of himself; his fist was lowered and he spoke more gently. "You're just kiddin'. You and Mary put up a job on me to kinda scare me, ain't you? It's all right, fella, and the joke's on me. That's it, ain't it?"

"Not, it ain't," said a woman's shrill voice. "I seen 'em both and they was pretty near naked. She picked him up on the street and brought him into her flat, in this building where me and my little girl lives. We're all disgraced by her."

Mike raised his free arm in anger and shoved Herman out of his way and went close up to the old woman who had spoken. He grabbed her by the dress and drew her face close up to his.

"Nobody ain't disgraced—nobody. You get that! Mary ain't that kind of a girl."

"I know what I seen," said the woman, glaring up into his eyes. "And I seen 'em as plain as I see you."

She thought Mike was going to strike her and raised her hands to protect her face, but Mike turned contemptuously away from her and went back to the janitor.

"Now, then, Herman, come on quick now, just what happened? I gotta find out. Don't you see?. . . I gotta find out. You come into my flat and tell me everything that happened."

He dragged Herman by the arm into his apartment and shut the door upon the others.

Fat Man Reduces 53 Pounds, Oh Boy!

Don't be stubborn, you big fat men—throw off your fat before your fat throws you into the discard. Do as Mr. S. A. Lanier of Sawtelle, Calif., did—read his letter:

"I have used two reducing belts to no benefit but since using Kruschen Salts each morning in my coffee I have taken off 7 lbs. in a week and eat most anything I like. I weighed 243 lbs. 6 months ago and now I weigh 190 lbs."

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—now you know the safe way to lose unsightly fat.

For a trifling sum you can get a jar of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks at White's Drug Store or any drugstore in the world—but be sure and get Kruschen—your health comes first. -5

HOOVER AGAIN HEADS G. O. P. PARTY

Republican delegates to the National Convention in Chicago Thursday afternoon renominated Vice President Charles Curtis as a running mate to Herbert Hoover, nominated earlier in the day to again head the party.

THE EDITOR SAYS—

What the private opinion of The Standard editor is in regard to the individual candidates for Congress-at-large the fact remains that seniority counts above everything else on committee assignments and a new member is placed at the bottom of every committee to which he is assigned. He is supposed to be seen and not heard. This for both political parties of the State. Missouri has some ranking members, both Democratic and Republican, that should be given first consideration when casting the ballot because they are the ones who will get the best committee assignments and can get more recognition for our State. Few of us are pleased at the straddling stand taken by our members, but not being on tne ground know not what the leaders thought best to do. We are for the succes sof our ticket first and for the individuals next. We shall try and not let our personal likes and dislikes appear in print and support every nominee whole hearted.

The good will of one's fellowman is an asset that no one should overlook. Clean living, being truthful and honest, helpful to neighbor and those in distress, are the things that bring good will to a man or a business. Good will is a thing that money will not buy though occasionally we hear of someone selling a business with good will.

Sunday is Father's Day! Why specify any particular day. Every day is his day. He pays the bill when he goes a courting. He pays for the ring. He pays the preacher. He pays the doctor. He pays for the diapers. He pays for the clothes. He gives away the bride. Loves and spoils the grandbabies and in the end dies and sometimes is soon forgotten. Anyway, the right sort of Dad is a good thing to have in the family.

One of the worst pieces of cussedness that has come to our attention for a long time, was the destroying of a box of everlasting flowers placed over the grave of Miss Mattie Cox, who passed away some months ago. Parts of the box were found strewn over the cemetery and the name from the temporary marker torn to pieces. Just what possesses anyone to do such a thing is beyond understanding. This wreath was placed on the grave in the City Cemetery Decoration Day and should have remained there indefinitely. We hope a trace of the perpetrators can be found and severe punishment given.

A merchant said he didn't feel so sore at the man who owed him and couldn't pay for the reason that he hadn't the money and he must feed his family first, but he did gripe when a man owed him, didn't pay, but able to buy a new outfit of some sort. This sort of people gripe all business men who have accommodated them with credit.

One who spoke as though he was experienced said the prettiest face may conceal the ugliest disposition, while a face not so pretty may carry the sweetest disposition. He added, however, that the sweet disposition may be a cultivated article with which to cover the face. The form was not mentioned.

A can of corn is not a very large package, but it takes a bushel of mature corn at present price to pay for a can of the best grade of corn. A bushel of sound mature corn will make at least two bushels of lye homniy that will go a long way toward stopping hunger. If you are short of money to buy canned corn, why not put in some spare time in making lye hominy in small quantities for home consumption. It will save money and keep folks from worrying about other things.

While Bishop Cannon was addressing an audience on the evils of intemperance and for good morals, etc., some peckerwood asked him if his own skirts were clear. The p. w. was promptly put out of the hall. Another p. w. and another heckled him so much, that the meeting was not so pleasant. Poor Old Bishop, he's in a hell of a fix.

Bob Mow Heads Ball Club; Malone Named Manager at Meet Held Tuesday Night

Bow Mow, Sr., was selected to head the Sikeston Baseball Club as president. Tom Malone was unanimously chosen manager of the team, and E. F. Schorle was elected secretary-treasurer at a meeting of fans and stockholders of the Association Tuesday evening at the City Hall.

Mr. Mow himself a ball player and ardent fan is experienced in the whims and fancies of ball players and should prove to be a capable and efficient Club president.

Tom Malone has successfully headed the Sikeston team in the past, and to his credit is the fact that under his management the locals offered only the finest brand of good baseball to local fans. Malone usually imported his moundsmen and filled in weak spots in the lineup with out-of-town players, and presented an unusually strong lineup for an independent, small town baseball club. Even though the season is far advanced, an effort will be made to schedule games, and, more important, to lay a foundation for a first rate club next spring.

Emanual Schorle deserves much credit for the success of the venture thus far. As treasurer of the Association, which recently purchased a 10-acre park, built a grandstand, and made arrangements for other necessities at the grounds, Schorle and M. M. Beck have worked tirelessly in securing stockholders, and more recently in collecting for shares sold.

The Sikeston Baseball Association will be ready within two weeks to file papers of incorporation. It is necessary now to collect for all unpaid shares, to have signatures attested by a notary, and to send the completed file to Jefferson City for recording.

Drouth Continues in Sikeston Area

An exceedingly light shower Wednesday afternoon teased crops, lawns and other growing vegetation in the Sikeston vicinity, but in the main, drouth continues here while nearby areas, highly localized, have been visited by a number of drenching rains.

Wheat and hay hayest is underway an for the present farmers appreciate continued dry weather after a fashion. A peculiar situation exists, however, in that wheat is hardly worth harvesting this season, according to most reports, and a good rain, although it would slow up this part of the harvest, would help corn, melons, peas, beans and other growing crops.

Even though the southern part of Scott and the northern part of New Madrid Counties were passed up by the rain Wednesday afternoon, Benton and a strip thru the northern part of the county reported a fine shower. A general weekly report of the United States Weather Bureau stated that a general drouth existed in the southeast corner of the State.

The report continues:

Rains, though helpful to wheat and oats, came too late for best results, the report continued. Wheat and oats in northwest counties are filling their heads and south of the Missouri River the crop is ripening fast in small heads on short straw. With some local exceptions, oats are generally inferior.

Corn generally is making satisfactory growth and is well cultivated and clean except in some of the wet lowlands in the northwest. From St. Charles County to the southern border the crop needs rain, as does cotton in the southeast, although it has god color. Some alfalfa has been harvested, stripping blue grass has started with fair yields indicated, pastures have improved but need more rain, and the Ozark potato crop has started off under fair conditions, the report indicates.

Temperatures in the State last week varied from a high of 96 at Sikeston to a low of 48 at Arcadia. Rains, likewise, were varied, Lexington reporting the heaviest at 2.30 inches while several central and southern Missouri stations reported no precipitation. The average for the State was .67 of an inch and the season's moisture total is but 5.83 inches, contrasted with a normal of 10.31.

Man In Steel Box Descends 800 Feet In Volcano and Recovers Two Bodies

Hilo, T. H., June 13.—The bodies of a native lover and the girl who refused his suit were recovered today from the fiery pit of Mount Halemaumau.

R. Konishi, a Japanese contractor, had himself lowered 800 feet into the crater of the volcano in a steel box.

It took four hours for the Japanese to descend, accomplish his task and be drawn again to the rim. He got $1000 for his work.

Konishi said he suffered no discomfort from the heat, nor from the deadly sulphur fumes that rise in swirling yellow clouds from the molten lava which bubbled only a short distance beneath him.

The dead youth, Sylvester Nunes, had loved the girl, Margaret Enos, and been refused. A week ago he kidnaped her from her home, shot her sister in the hand when the sister attempted to frustrate the abduction, and drove to the rim of the volcano. There he shot and killed the girl.

With her body in his arms, he leaped into the fiery pit, following out an ancient Hawaiian custom established years ago by other frustrated lovers.

WESTWAY CLUB HELD MEETING LAST NIGHT

The Westway Club of the Woman's Benefit Association held its meeting last night (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. E. N. Leech on Ruth Street. In Monday's paper it appeared that the meeting would be held with Mrs. Ben Ritter. It should have stated Mrs. Leech's home.

DIZZY DEAN QUITS CARDS IN A HUFF

Philadelphia, June 15.—Jerome Herman Dean, better known as "Dizzy", has left the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dean caught a train for St. Louis early today, declaring he was through with the world champions because they had not treated him right.

Dean, one of the most eccentric pitchers in the major leagues since the days of Rube Waddell, has kept the St. Louis club on tenterhooks dealing with his pranks all season. Several times before he had threatened to quit.

It was learned from reliable sources that Dean felt that he had not received favors from the Cardinals which he desired and left the city 'in a huff".

"Dean has no real grieveance against the Cardinals", Gabby Street, manager of the club, said. "He has been treated fairly, but he is a hard proposition to handle".

First Season

This is Dean's first season as a big leaguer. The Cardinals had him last year, but farmed him to Houston in the Texas League, where he helpel pitch the team to the pennant and was voted the most valuable player in the circuit.

This season Dean has not been the sensation it was predicted he would become. He has been hit hard in many of his contests, even those he won.

Dean in St. Louis recently announced he wanted to be traded by St. Louis because he was not permitted to work regularly enough.

On one of the days during the Phils series there, Dean refused to get in uniform because he was not allowed to pitch, according to Phillies' players.

MARGARET MARY HUNTER AND DEE ROWLING WED

New Madrid, June 15.—Dee Rolwing and Miss Margaret Mary Hunter were married at High Mass at the Immaculate Conception Church of this city Tuesday morning at 8:30 with Fr. T. J. Flanigan officiating. The bride was accompanied to the alter by her father, Shap R. Hunter, Jr., where the bridal party was met by the groom and best man. The attendants were Miss Evelyn Huntomobiles and went to work as an

The church was beautifully decorated with summer garden flowers and presented a beautiful appearance to the many relatives and friends who were present. The bride wore a dress of white crepe with hat and accessories to harmonize, and carried a beautiful bouquet of Ophelia Roses. The bride's attendant also wore white crepe and carried a bouquet of La-France Roses.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shap R. Hunter, Jr., of this city, and formerly attended the Immaculate Conception school here. After completing the course she was graduated from Loretto College, Webster Groves. She accepted the position as secretary with Sharpe & Baynes, and later when her parents moved to Sikeston, she accepted a position with the Scott County Milling Co. For the past year and a half, she has been employed in the County Clerk's office in this city. She is a popular lady and has many friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Rolwing of Charleston. He is employed as a bookkeeper for Whitehead-Davis Cotton and Grain Co. of that city. He is a graduate of the Catholic school at Charleston, and has many friends in this district.

After the ceremony, a breakfast was served to the bridal party and relatives were present at the bride's home, after which the young couple left for Memphis and other southern points. They will make their home in Charleston. Their many friends wish for them a happy life throughout their career.

REV. J. A. DUNCAN RECALLED AS PASTOR

Rev. J. A. Duncan was recalled again last Thursday night as pastor of the lcoal Nazarene church. This is the beginning of the fifth year for Rev. and Mrs. Duncan with the church and their work has been so successful that not a vote was cast against them returning to the church for another year. Sikestonians are glad indeed to have Rev. and Mrs. Duncan remain here.

TROOPERS HERE GET NINE SETS OF HANDCUFFS

Nine sets of "bracelets" or handcuffs were received Thursday morning at Troop E Highway Patrol Headquarters here, as added regular equipment of State Highway Patrolmen in this division.

The new manacles, a Missouri product, are of the latest "flash" type, giving very litle freedom to the person on whom they are used. Instead of being connected with a short chain, the "cuffs" are in one piece, holding the wrists of the prisoner about two inches apart. They are to be worn on the belt in a flap leather holster.

BENTON MAN TO ATTEND CONFEDERATE MEETING

Benton, June 14.—Henry Clay Watkins, Jr., of Benton will leave Sunday night for St. Louis to attend the Confederate veterans' reunion in Richmond, Va., June 21 to 24. Mr. Watkins, who is deputy clerk of Scott County, will go as aide de camp on the staff of the commander of the Missouri division, and also will represent the Sikeston Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which was named for his grandfather. NEGRO DRIVERS HIT WAGON LOAD OF FOLKS RETURNING FROM CHURCH

New Madrid, June 15.—Willie Glass, colored of near Marston, was taken into custody Sunday night by Deputy Harris, Constable Wilkins, and Chief of Poplic Babcock, after it had been reported that a hit-and-run driver had run into a wagon and team near Marston.

In the pursuit that followed, two negroes, Glass and Blum Boren, were apprehended near Portageville in an intoxicated condition with the wrecked machine. Boren, badly cut, was in the machine, while Glass was laying on the ground beside it. They admitted the charge, but contended they could give no assistance, so drove on.

They were lodged in the County jail, and later Boren, who was only an occupant of the car, was released, while Glass will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday on charges of driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

No one was injured, except Boren, but one mule had to be killed as a result of a broken and crushed leg and perhaps the second mule will have to be killed later, depending on the extent of his injuries. All occupants of the wagon were negroes, who had attended church and were returning home.

CHECK TAX MAY COST SIKESTON $1500 MONTH

On and after Tuesday next week, June 21, each check written in the United States will cost two pennies more—a government tax found necessary by those in control, to balance the Federal budget.

There will be no stamps. Each bank is to work out its own particular system of keeping books on the number of checks written, and of making remittances to the government. But no matter what system is used, the writer of the check will find his account debited two cents for each check written, payment to the government being made by the bank once a month.

One Sikeston bank has worked out its system of keeping books on the new tax. As each check is presented for payment the banker stamps the words "U. S. tax 2c" across the face of the check. As the item is posted in the ledger the account is debited two cents more than the face of the check, and each evening the amount due the government is carefully computed.

One local banker estimated that both banks in the city would remit approximately $1500 per month or $18,000 per year tax to the government provided the present volume of business continues to be carried on by check.

Two Six Guns and Bottle of Brew Found in Car by Sheriff

New Madrid, June 15.—Ross Gregory and Joseph Earl of New Madrid were taken into custody Sunday afternoon on complaint of Dunklin County authorities who phoned Sheriff A. F. Stanley that a hold-up had been committed in Malden Saturday night in which a citizen had been relieved of $50, his watch and one shotgun.

A description given the sheriff led to the arrest of Gregory and Earl, who were driving about the city in a green Essex, accompanied by three girls.

A search of the car revealed that the boys had a can of alleged iced home brew in the rear seat. Earl was sitting on a .38 revolver, while a .45 revolver was found in the side pocket of the machine, near Gregory. The larger gun as well as a suit of overalls found later, were identified by the Malden victim.

Harvey Gunn, released alst week on parole from the State Penitentiary after serving a six-year term for shooting the Sheriff of Dunklin County some time ago, was also taken into custory in connection with the affair.

One of the trio has positively been identified. A preliminary hearing was scheduled to be held in Malden, Wednesday.

Annie Williams, Gertie Cleaves and Juanita Gunn were lodged in jail by Sheriff Stanley Tuesday on a charge of vagrancy, when it was alleged that the sheriff entered Williams' home investigating the hold-up in which Gregory, Earl and Harvey Gunn featured and found the women drinkin~ brew and liquor. All will be given a hearing Wednesday before Squire Knott. At present they are in the County jail.

SHOE FACTORY PRODUCTION INCREASE SEEN

International Plant Here Will Operate Within 65 to 70 Pct. Capacity

W. L. Huters, manager of the Sikeston International Shoe Company factory here today confirmed a rumor to the effect that the plant would in the near future increase production approximately 50 per cent, and within a month would be operating at 65 to 70 per cent of capacity.

At the present time approximately 450 workmen and women are employed full time or part time at the plant. The increased schedule will mean full time work for all present employees and the recalling of former employes, laid off temporarily when production schedules slumped.

With the exception of a recent short shut-down, the Sikeston shoe factory has been unusually fortunate in keeping the door open and at least a part time, limited production schedule in effect. Several hundred employees, while not employed full time, have managed to earn a living wage in Sikeston when other plants operated by the "largest shoe company in the world" were shut down.

Come boys and girls and learn some fine points of yo-yoing.

THE WET G. O. P PLANK AS PASSED

After hours of debate and argument the following plank was submitted and passed by the Republican National Convention in Chicago late Wednesday night.

"We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provision of which, while retaining in the federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow States to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the federal government to protect those States where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

"Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the States by Congress, to be acted upon by State conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions or article V of the constitution, and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative".

Our colored friends over Southeast Missouri should study the life of Abraham Lincoln, their patron saint, well before being led by mercenaries as their forbears were a century ago, and voted for the benefit of some politician who is paid to corral and deliver them as so many cattle. The life of Lincoln shows that he was a man of humble birth, who endured all the hardships of a poor boy fighting for the right to live. In spite of all handicaps he attained the highest position in the gift of the Nation. At Washington he was snubbed by the aristocrats, the men of money, and insulted by his own cabinet who looked on him as an inferior being. In spite of all this he was the one shining light of his day. His heart and every thought was with the people and for the people—not the aristocrats who ruled with money and social power. He was elected as a Republican, but Republicans of his day was not the same as now, and we feel certain that if living at this time, he would be a Democrat because he would be for those in distress.

Col. Bennett C. Clark has been advised that the War Veterans Political Club, an organization with members throughout Northeast Missouri, is actively supporting his candidacy for U. S. Senator. It is expected, Clark's campaign managers say, that the action taken by the Northeast Missouri veterans will be followed by endorsements of simliar groups in other sections of the State.

* * *

Now let me tell you. If we were a candidate for State office, it would tickle us pink to have the backing of the Pendergast Kansas City Machine. At the same time, the thing that doesn't appeal to the ordinary voter is the fact that a majority of the candidates running for State office are from Kansas City or that section of the State. It is not fair to other sections and that is the reason for the antagonism over most of the State to the Pendergast Machine. We expect to support every man nominated on the Democratic ticket at the primray because, in the past, the Democrats have stood for the things best for the poor man. And we have hopes the shadow of Thomas Jefferson will have the right effect on future legislation.

* * *

Once in a while there is a rift in the clouds that lets a flood of sunlight in upon a darkened and money-grabbing world. An Ohio man postponed the spring opening of his roller coaster to accommodate a pair of robins that were raising a family in a nest built on the tracks.

* * *

In former years the pickpocket was a pest to be feared at any important gathering such as fairs and circuses. The Republican administration has taken that fear out of the system of most men as well as lifting the wallet out of their pocket.

* * *

England has just distributed about 250 million dollars as interest on some of her war loan bonds. Uncle Sam will have to be contented with the compliment that was paid to the patient several hundred years ago, by the English poet Milton: "They also serve who only stand and wait."

* * *

Three persons clearly got the worst of it this week. A drunken Washington woman hailed a police car for a taxi, a Michigan cracksman blew an empty safe, and a New York baby had to undergo an appendicitis operation before he was forty minutes old.

* * *

The old folks come to the front in the current print. Jugoslavia reports a peasant 127 years old. Nothing is said of him saving that he died. England has a church warden who can attend to the duties of his office at 99. Chicago does not make much of a showing in the age column by referring to a man of 78, yet it may be that the Chicago patriarch, though a little short on years, should be stepped to the head of the list. He has run one auto since 1924, in order to save a little loose cash with which to buy meals for the children of the poor.

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri
Gentlemen:

I wish to answer an item of criticism which appeared in the Lilbourn Banner published in Lilbourn, New Madrid County, on date of June 9. It seems that Editor Lloyd feels that he has been slighted by the Circuit Clerk and myself in the matter of placing orders for supplies. Mr. Underwood, no doubt, has good reason for placing his order for supplies with you. I have excellent reasons for placing my order with you, or with anyone else whom I may care to patronize. And I certainly have good reasons for not placing my order with the Lilbourn Banner.

It is true that I am a Republican, elected on the Republican ticket to the office which I now hold. However, I refuse to become a part of any one man's political machine and to be a source of profit to him through any contracts I may have to let from this office. I owe it to the people of my county to place orders for supplies where the service, quality and prices are the best. If Editor Lloyd cares to challenge my discretion on either of these grounds, he is welcome to do so.

I am,
Very truly yours,
HERSCHEL W. WARD,
County Assessor.

NEWSPAPERMAN FOR CONGRESS

Holliway is 42 years old, a native of Springfield, Mo., and now is in charge of the Jefferson City bureaus of the Kansas City Journal-Post and the St. Louis Times. He has been in active newspaper work twenty-two years. When a member of the old St. Louis Republic staff he was sent to jail in Jefferson City forty days for contempt of court because he refused to violate a confidence and divulge the source of a story telling about grand jury indictments in state graft cases. He is married and the father of two children.

Briefly, he stands for: Permanently balancing the budget by reducing expenditures of government; 10 per cent reduction in the salary of all government employees, including congressmen; abolition of the Farm board and all tax-eating commissions which are draining the treasury; opposed to cancellation of foreign debts; opposed to employment of relatives on government payroll; adoption of the Canadian system for control of the liquor traffic as a substitute for the eighteenth amendment and against the return of the old saloon; opposed to government being in private business.

They Say—Says The Man About Town

By ART L. WALLHAUSEN

Now that the Republican keynoter has keynoted we, with the rest of the country, are beginning to wonder what he said.

We understand that the statement was made that had the Democrats been in power there sure would have been a panic. Which should be answere at Chicago next week in two famous last words: "Oh, yeah?"

Missourians charged with the responsbiility of manufacuring a lighted map of the State for the World's Fair next year are having difficulty in selecting the primary product of each county we are told.

Inborn modesty forbids our saying anything, but in a spurt of helpfulness to the committee we suggest that a certain twice-a-week newspaper published in Sikeston is one of the outstanding, primary products of Scott County.

The girl who insists on rpooning with every fellow that comes along ought to be backed into a woodshed and relieved of her overflow of affection with a No. 11 slipper, laid carelessly across the hiplets. We would sooner see the girl kiss a blind shoat through a barbed wire fence than have her change partners seven nights a week. It is harder to marry off a girl who has been pawed over by everyone in the community thas it is to fatten a sheep on pineapple ice. You can't goldbrick a suitor with second-hand goods, any more than you can fit a bath robe on a goat.

Which is just about as it is, but we wonder who burned up Mr. X and why?

Judge Myers has found the meanest man in the world. It seems as though a man past the three score years and ten mark who in years gone by has worked hard and toiled much, is now feeble and to make matters worse, slightly mentally unbalanced. Very recently, he lost his job as farm laborer on a farm near the Stoddard County line, and traveled as best he could on funds donated by friends, to the home of his son in Tennessee.

This week the son loaded his aged father into the family model T, drove to Missouri, stopped the car in the neighborhod of the old man's former haunts and there abandoned him as one might a cur dog or a stray cat. The tortures of hades should be too mild for a cuss like that.

IN THE RANKS OF THE WET PATRIOTS

Rev. Dewey Short, a Methodist minister until he heard the call of politics, now announces that he will be a candidate for the United States Senate and, if successful, will devote himself to the task of seeing that people are permitted to "enjoy the temperate use of pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices". If the Reverend Dewey were still a pastor of a flock he would probably busy himself seeing that his membership was guaranteed at all times a supply of pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices, because over in the Ozarks, where he has done his religious work, alcoholic beverages are known as mountain dew, a brew that makes men whip their mothers. Naturally a minister should be interested in toning down an essential household commodity that carries such a wallop.

The Rev. Dewey says he is fighting for "decent living" conditions. This thing of a man or boy having to sneak around for a drink of booze is terrible, and then being compelled to accept hooch of questionable quality at high prices is still more terrible. This condition has brought ruination upon our great country and scores of preachers and politicians are numbered among the unemployed. So the Rev. Dewey wants only good liquor sold, and the prices must be fair. Then, we assume, a congregation at a Sunday morning service would not be in a belligerent mood, men would not be anxious to whip their mothers, but would be mellowed and inspired and happy in the thought that it didn't take their last cent and that they hadn't violated the law. Happy days are coming to the boys and men of this country if such patriotic statesmen can only carry out their plans.

How fine it will be when mothers are assured that their husbands and sons have free access to "pure alcoholic beverages at fair prices". This will also give assurance that young people will no longer have a hard time hunting up booze for their parties and then have to pay exorbitant prices. The Rev. Dewey says he will work for a modification that will enable everybody to "enjoy the temperate use" of quality liquor and they may enjoy it all the more in the satisfaction that no one has made a large profit in the business. Doubtless the clergy in general will flock to the support of the Rev. Dewey in his efforts to bring back to the homes of America free and unrestrained use of this great commodity, and parents who are ambitious to have their sons and daughters exercise their personal liberty unrestrained, and possibly become famous in handling of the stuff, will not only rush to the polls to vote for him but will sing his praises forever. Not many preachers are so thoughtful of the welfare of the people.

In his forthcoming struggle for "decent living and good government", the Rev. Dewey will have to defeat a wet of his own kind and also a perpetual wet. Robert Kratky, a young man who claims to have found Victor Miller and elected him mayor of St. Louis, has discovered that he is now wet. He also would return the country to a state of great prosperity thru legalized booze. Kratky is reported to be running for the Senate to beat former Mayor Henry Kiel, and to do this it probably behooved him to follow the course of others who believe there are more wet votes than dry votes.

Former Mayor Kiel of St. Louis, who has been before the public many years, is known as a conservative man. He has always been wet and has always been temperate in his activities.

The Republican voters may take their choice between these three men—one wet and two who seem able to adjust themselves to meet the occasion, whatever it may be. —Southeast Missourian.

TALKING CROW SHOT ACCIDENTLY BY OWNER

Several weesk ago Sikeston readers of a St. Louis metropolitan newspaper Sunday magazine section read of Jim, the talking crow of Fidelity, Ill., owned by Robert and Lewis Tuetken. The bird is said to have possessed unusual ability in being able to speak, and manifested other characteristics not usually attributed to birds.

But Jim, the talking crow, is dead. Robert Tuetken fired into a tree to disperse black birds that were attacking a robin's nest last Saturday and Jim fell out mortally wounded. A taxidermist is preserving the remains.

"The Budget Must Be Balanced"

So says Uncle Samuel.

Most of us will know more about it later than we do now.

In the meantime however we KNOW NOW there is a 5% tax on Majestic Electric Refrigerators and Philco Radios that goes into effect June 21st.

That means $5.00 to $10.00 additional on Majestics and $2.50 to $7.50 on Philcos.

Not such a large sum it's true but worth saving.

Electric Refrigeration is in the minds of a number of Sikeston housekeepers just now.

Those who are putting off buying are merely paying out money for ice day after day that might as well go toward paying for a Majestic.

Their engineers have profited by the mistakes of Companies that were earlier in the field.

As a resuult the Majestic is the most modern plant of it's kind in America.

CORRECT ANSWER TO THE VEXING PROBLEM
—(Lifted)

Absolute knowledge I have none
But my Aunt's washer woman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat,
Say to a fellow on the street,
That he had a letter from Dewey Short just last week,
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said the negroes in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Missouri town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South American Jews,
About somebody in Borneo,
Who heard a man who claimed to know
Of a swell society female fake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her seventh husbands' sister's niece
Had stated in a printed piece
That she has a son who has a friend
Who says keep Hoover and the depression will end.

Fine Fruit Candies

Is there anyone anywhere who doesn't prick up his ears at the words homemade candies, especially when they are made from pure sweet fruit? Children love them, because they are so good, mothers approve of them because they are wholesome. As for fathers—they like them because it is the best candy they've tasted since the old maple sugar days down on the farm.

Peach Jelly Cubes: Press an eight-ounce can of peaches through a sieve, making a purée. Add one-half cup pectin syrup (made according to directions on bottle), one-half cup sugar, one-half cup corn syrup, and one tablespoon lemon juice. Boil until thermometer registers 222 degrees. Pour into greased pans so that mixture is about one-half inch thick, and let cool. Let stand over night in a cold place. Cut in cubes and roll in powdered sugar. May also be dipped in chocolate or in melted fondant.

This Is Divine

Pineapple Divinity: Cook one-half cup shredded pineapple and three tablespoons sugar to a thick jam, 225 degrees. Mix two cups sugar, one-half cup water, and one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, and boil to 260 degrees. Just before this temperature is attained, add the pineapple jam, continuing the boiling to the 260-degree point. Beat one egg-white stiff, then add hot syrup very slowly, stirring constantly, and beating till stiff and will hold its shape. Add one-fourth cup chopped maraschino cherries, and pour into buttered pans.*

LEGS SEVERED UNDER TRAIN IN M. P. YARDS

Kenneth Martin, 17-year-old Batesville, Ark., youth, was in a critical condition at the Lucy Lee Hospital today as the result of injuries received about 6:30 Sunday morning when he was run over by a box car in the Missouri Pacific yards here. Both of the boy's legs were badly mangled that amputation near the hips was found necessary. Physicians hold out small hope for his recovery.

Martin and three other youths, Eugene Bennett, 20, of Batesville; Kennett Bennett, 17, of Batesville and Roy Cain, 21, of Cadet, Mo., were sitting on a Missouri Pacific switch track about 50 feet south of the viaduct in the lower yards, and were waiting to catch a south bound freight train, due out at 6:40 on the next track. They were facing west, with their legs between the rails and about 6 feet south of a long string of boxcars. There were 112 cars in this string which placed the northern end about opposite the Missouri Pacific freight house.

A switch engine, preparing to move the string, hooked up on the northern end and shunted the cars a short distance down the track. The other three youths were fortunate enough to roll clear of the rails but Martin did not move quickly enough and the wheels of one of the box cars passed over both his legs between the knee and hip.

Engineer M. S. Randles in charge of the switch engine at the other end of the train and several hundred feet away, had no way of seeing the boys and did not know that an accident had occurred until several minutes later.

The two Bennett boys and Cain called to railroad employes in the yards and an ambulance was summoney. Martin was rushed to the Lucy Lee Hospital, where amputation of his legs was found necessary. He rallied from the operation, but his condition all day has been critical. He suffered seriously from loss of blood and shock.

The injured boy is the son of Vester Martin of Batesville, who arrived here yesterday. He was on his way home to Batesville, after being on the road seeking employment.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

In the new tax mill, brewers wort is taxed 15 cents a gallon, malt syrup 3 cents a pound and grape concentrates 20 cents a gallno. But no additional tax is laid on corn sugar.

Wort, malt syrup and grape concentrates are materials with which the home brewers and kitchen vintners of the cities work. They produce beverages of relative mildness, beer and wine whose alcoholic content is low, unless they are fortified by complicated means usually beyond the capacitv of the kitchen operators.

Corn sugar, on the other hand, is heaven's gift to the moonshiner. It produces corn whisky with an alcoholic content of 50 per cent or better, which can be redistilled into straight alcohol. But it is rarely, if ever, employed for such purposes in the home.

The effect of the bill, therefore, seems to be to raise a sort of tariff to protect the moonshiner against the competition of the housewife, and to substitute for her mild potations the liquid fire from the blockade stills. Just what is to be gained by this policy we confess we do not know. It is another of the mysteries of prohibition.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

MAN KILLED HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER HELD

Bernie, June 13.—Willard Deniphen, aged 24, of Zalma, was struck and killed by an automobile on Highway, 25 about one and a half miles north of Bernie at 1 a. m. Sunday. Floyd Moore, well known local young business man, manager of a Kroger store here, was arrested and placed in jail in default of $2000 bond, in connection with the accident.

Moore was driving a Ford coupe, it was learned here. He was found at the home of Landon Brown where he was spending the night.

A truck load of local young people, returning from a show at Dexter, was first to learn of the accident. They reported that a coupe had passed at a rapid rate of speed.

Brown was riding with Moore when the accident occurred, he said. He was dozing, and was aroused by the impact. Brown told him, he said, he thought he had run over a box.

Occupants of the truck said Deniphen was unconscious when they reached him, and that he died within a few minutes. Another motorist, going north, sent back to Bernie for officers while the party in the truck remained in charge of the dead man until officers arrived.

Sheriff Fred Beal and Prosecuting Attorney Kip Briney of Bloomfield, and Coroner C. O. Bennett of Bell City was summoned and held an inquest at 11 a. m. Sunday, after which the young man's parents took charge of the body and returned it to their home at Zalma.

Just before the inquest, Sheriff Beal and City Marshal E. L. Moore, prompted by suspicion, went to the Brown home and examined the automobile. Bits of blood, hair and flesh, and fragments of the unfortunate victim's clothing were found on the car, they said. After some questioning, Moore was arrested.

BONUS ARMY MARCH A HEALTH MENACE

The Surgeon General of the United States Public Service at Washington, D. C., has sent to all State Health Officers a warning for transmission to the cities of the United States that the concentration of the Bonus Army in Washington, where they are camped in the most insanitary and unhealthful conditions may at any moment cause an epidemic of disease which will result in its immediate spread to every community its members may visit on their return to their various States. This constitutes a great health menace to the entire nation.

Dr. James Stewart, State Health Commissioner of Missouri, desires this warning to be spread throughout Missouri, in co-operation and with the endorsement of the State Commander of the American Legion, urging that all health officers and citizens of the State co-operate in discouraging every one from joining the movement and be on the look-out for any of the present Bonus Army members spreading disease as they return. Our State Health Commissioner desires to prevent any such health hazard to the citizens of our State and advises that everyone joining this movement will not only endanger their own health but will be a potential danger to those communities visited enroute.

A $2 Dinner for 6

THE little girl who could never do fractions, sometimes finds them figuring ominously in her life after she has grown up. Dividing two by six might prove a pretty difficult problem, but here it is solved as easily as can be.

Fried Ham and Eggs 92c
Mashed Potatoes 15¢
Fruit Cole Slaw 20¢
Chocolate Blanc Mange 15¢
Baked Tomatoes and Cheese 27¢
Bread and Butter 11¢
Coffee with Cream 15¢

A couple of these recipes to serve six people may be new to you, so here they are:

Baked Tomatoes and Cheese: Add to the contents of a No. 2 can of tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste, and one teaspoon chopped onion. You will need one-half cup grated cheese, one cup bread crumbs and one tablespoon butter. Put alternate layers of tomatoes, cheese and crumbs in a buttered baking dish, having the top layer of crumbs. Dot with butter and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

A Crisp Salad

Fruit Cole Slaw: Crisp one cup finely shredded cabbage in ice water, drain and dry thoroughly. Add one diced orange, and, just before serving, the drained crushed pineapple from an 8-ounce can. Mix in carefully one-half cup boiled dressing, and serve on lettuce.*

In Arkansas 1000 dipning vats are in operation. If this hot weather continues some sort of disinfection vats will have to be operated here to kill b. o. that is met so frequently on the streets.

Something like $20,000 was found in an old bureau the other day. It was not a Government bureau.—Minneapolis Journal.

Let me tell you again. Those who owe us need not dodge us because they cannot, or have no intention of paying what they owe. We know conditions and we know dead beats. If all bills were paid we could pay out of debt, help the hospital, help the churches, help the sick, help the hungry. But dodging and lying helps no one.

Bishop Cannon ought to be told of the close connection of Jos. L. Scott of California, who made the speech nominating Herbert Hoover, to the Roman Catholic church. Two of his sons are priests and this connection ought to prevent Cannon and the Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals from voting for Hoover this time.

4-H CLUBBERS ATTEND CAMP IRONDALE THIS WEEK

New Madrid, June 13.—Several of the 4-H Clubs of New Madrid County have representatives at the Southeast Missouri 4-H Club camp at Irondale this week. These camps are both educational and recreational in nature, and club members many ways of increasing the usefulness of their own local clubs. Because transportation arrangements have not been completed definite information as to the number attending this camp from New Madrid County cannot be given at this time. County Agent, Gordon B. Nance, visited the 4-H Clubs in different parts of the county last week to get acquainted with the Club leaders of the different clubs, and the work that was being done.

Parma leads the list in the number of clubs being conducted, having four clubs with 42 members. These clubs are as follows: Sewing Club 1 of which Mrs. J. H. Harpster is leader. This is the first course in sewing in which the making of summer clothes for girls is taught. This club has seven members, and all of them have completed their work. A Baking Club of which Mrs. Floyd Gale is the leader. This club teaches the making of bread and has six members. They have already held three meetings and have finished approximately half of their work. A Canning Club of which Mrs. Solon Gee is leader, teaches the best methods of canning fruit and vegetables. This club has nine members and has already held three meetings, and has finished half of the work outlined at the beginning of the club. Portageville has two clubs and Mrs. Pearl H. Wilson is leader of both. Sewing Club 1 has nine members and a Health & Sanitation Club having nine members. The purpose of this Health and Sanitation Club is to teach the health rules and to promote their practice. There is one Pig Club at Canalou of which Owen Taul is leader and it has six members. The object of this club is to demonstrate the proper methods of feeding hogs to achieve rapidity and economy of gain.

Pharris Ridge has a Meal Preparation Club of which Miss Edith Hensley is the local leader. This club studies the selection of foods for a properly balanced meal; the most healthful and appetizing methods of preparing these foods; and attractive manner of serving. These Clubs are doing excellent work. Attempts will be made to increase the number of such clubs in New Madrid County, and to increase the number of communities in which clubs are conducted. Communities interested in starting a 4-H Club can secure information and assistance by writing to the County Agent.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL FROM MATTHEWS

(Mrs. W. H. Deane)

Children's Day was observed here Sunday at the Methodist church. A fine program in the morning was rendered by the children of the Sunday school. At the noon hour a dinner of barbecued meats, chicken, salads, cakes pies and everything that goes to make a big dinner, was served to between three and four hundred people. There was lots of barbecued meats and bread left, which was sold out to be donated to the church. Mr. McCord of New Madrid addressed the people Sunday afternoon. His fine talk was much appreciated by the people. It certainly didn't look like depression had hit Matthews in going down the long lines of tables and seeing the wonderful dinner spread out. We only wish lots more people could have enjoyed this day with us.

The fine program was under the directions of Mrs. Charles Spaulding, Albert Deen, Walter Mills and Robert Binford, who wish to thank all who helped with the singing and church decorations. The dinner was under the management of Walter Mills, William Deane, Jr. They want to thank Charley Moore, Elon Proffer, Gaither Daugherty, M. G. Brooks, W. M. McGee, B. F. Swartz for the hogs donated to be barbecued, to F. D. Morgan for the goat, to Bland Hawkins and O. K. Mainord for their liberal donation of bread.

And we can't say enough in words to thank the boys and men of this place for the wonderful support given in building the fine arbor, getting wood, helping to prepare the meats and doing everything to make this dinner one of the finest and most successful ever had here. Mr. Mills and Mr. Deane wish to thank all the merchants for their hearty co-operation. We want to thank the people of the Christian church for showing us so much courtesy. Rev. Margrave closed this wonderful day with a fine sermon Sunday night.

Mrs. Don Kochel of Canalou was here Sunday.

V. C. Russell, Post-Dispatch representative, and John Kerr of the Globe-Democrat, were here Friday on business.

Mrs. Aubrey Lumert and children of Portageville were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Deane, Sunday.

Mrs. Herman Hill and daughter, Miss Rachel, Miss Hazel Mitchell, and Miss Haggaman of Hayti spent the week-end here with friends and attended the children's day celebration.

Mrs. Victor Mallburne and daughter of Caruthersville were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. James Huls, last week. Miss Geraldine Huls accompanied her aunt home for a week's visit.

We are needing rain badly around here now, west and south of us. The farmers have had two wonderful rains. Around Kewanee farmers haven't been able to plow since Wednesday, two miles west of Matthews, fine rains have fallen and the crops are looking fine. Lots of corn is being laid by and is wonderful looking for this time of the year. Corn on the prairie is needing rain badly, some is beginning to burn. Truck patches are burning badly. The potatoe crops are very good. Cotton looks good. Owing to dry weather, the farmers have been able to keep it clean. Farmers say wheat is much better than they expected, if they could only get a good price.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO PARTY'S CHOICE

New York, June 13.—Whatever the outcome of the Democratic national convention, the leaders of the party, including the unsuccessful presidential candidates, "will get behind the nominee and support him loyally".

This was the declaration of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jouett Shouse, Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. James M. Cox, John W. Davis and 54 other leaders today as they joined in a united appeal for completion of the party's $1,500,000 victory fund before opening of the convention in Chicago on June 27. The appeal was described as one of "practical politics".

"Now, when neither candidate nor platform is known, when neither gratification at the selection of an individual nor disappointment at the defeat of others can have its influence, is the time of all times for members of the organization to display their party patriotism", said the joint message.

Dexter, June 13.—The preliminary hearing of Alfred Mayberry and S. P. Tribble, charged with stealing timber, set for Friday before Justice W. C. Keaton and Justice Frank Utley, was transferred to Judge C. A. Crane by change of venue and will be heard June 17.

OLD DISTILLERY WAREHOUSE BURNS

A mammoth storehouse on the old J. R. Hogg farm, that in prehibition days was used as a warehouse for the old Hogg Distillery, was destroyed by fire early this morning together with 1500 bales of hay and about 150 bushels of corn.

The building belonged to P. T. Nance and the corn and hay to Edmund Hogg. Hogg had only $100 insurance and Nance had none. The structure, erected possibly 30 years ago, was built of solid oak, was 60x100 feet, of massive construction and made an extremely hot fire. The newly constructed residence of J. H. Fisher, a short distance west of the building, was saved by Poplar Bluff firemen who took the chemical truck to the scene. The blaze attracted throngs from miles around.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

THE BEST KIND OF BABY

THE best kind of baby is the baby that sleeps soundly, and sleeps when it should—the kind that yells vigorously when hungry, and eats with gusto when fed—the kind that responds to your advances with coos and bubbles and a wide smile of delight. Do you know how to make yours that kind of baby?

If more mothers knew that babies are almost literally what they eat (and what their mothers eat) there would be fewer sick babies. The importance of the right kind of food cannot be over-estimated, and the right kind of food, for both baby and mother, must contain plenty of vitamins.

What Every Mother Knows

Every modern mother knows how necessary sieved vegetables are to supplement milk in the diet of babies. If there be any mother who doubts this, she need only ask her doctor. Such an eminent authority on babies, for example, as Dr. William McKim Marriott, B.S., M.D., states that beginning with the fifth or sixth month the breast-fed infant should be given once a day a purée of spinach, carrots or mixed vegetables in amounts of one to two tablespoonfuls.

Mary Swartz Rose, Ph.D., suggests a tablespoonful of sifted spinach and carrot pulp for breast-fed babies at seven months. And, since these suggestions have been published, other physicians have found that sieved vegetables are tolerated by infants at two months or even younger.

But cooking and sieving fresh vegetables in the home kitchen is a long, tedious and wasteful job. A greater quantity of vegetable than is necessary is purchased and prepared. When brought home from the market, that part of the vegetable which is not good must be thrown away, and this may amount to 10 or 20 per cent. of the vegetable bought. Or, perhaps the quantity prepared at once will not keep, and the mother decides later not to use it again.

What Every Mother Doesn't Know

What every mother doesn't know is that home preparation usually destroys a good part of the important vitamins, and that she can now get sieved vegetables in cans scientifically prepared so that they retain more vitamins than those prepared at home.

With these sieved vegetables there is no picking over, no throwing away, no long cooking, no mashing, no sieving, no straining. They come all ready to warm and serve, and are of a consistency suitable for infant digestions.

The best brands of these convenient baby foods have been endorsed by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, and are allowed to use its seal of acceptance on their cans. This means that the scientists of the American Medical Association have independently checked every step of their processing.

However, every producer of these foods will tell you that no mother should think of feeding her baby anything which was not recommended by her own physician who prescribes his diet. So be sure, before including any of these new puréed foods in your baby's diet, to ask your doctor about quantities and his advice about using them.

With Scientific Care

Some of these sieved vegetables are seasoned, and some are not. One brand, which is put up in sanitary enamel lined cans, carries on its label a guarantee of the exact amounts of vitamins A, B and C which its sieved vegetables contain. And the proof that this guarantee is absolutely dependable and means exactly what it says lies in the fact that this is one of the brands which has been accepted by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, and is allowed to use its seal of acceptance on the cans.

Biological assays of the finished products of this brand made by Dr. Walter H. Eddy of Teachers College, Columbia University, have determined not only the exact vitamin potency of each, but also that each provides a generous supply of proteins, calories and mineral salts.

Safer and More Sanitary

These sieved vegetables of various brands offered to mothers not merely to save them time, trouble and expense, but to provide them with a better, safer and more sanitary product than they can make at home, now include spinach, carrots, green beans, tomatoes, green peas, prunes, vegetable soup and purées of mixed vegetables.

CAIRO OWES WAGE BILL TO WORKERS

Cairo, June 14.—Default in $27,300 of principal and interest on city bond issues due July 1 is threatened Commission Alexander Wilson has announced. The city now is four months behind in meeting its current expenses.

Five of the 20 special assessments are overdrawn and there will be special assesment bonds amounting to $52,000 to meet July 1, Wilson says. The city will have only $20,000 to apply on this.

The commissioner is trying to arrange a loan to provide funds to pay a portion of the delinquent salaries of city employes who have not had a pay day since February 1.

At present operation of the city government is costing $8000 a month, and there is agitation for economies. Mayor Bode has asserted that it may be necessary to dispense with important city services.

One-fourth of the city's current expenses are for the fire department, garbage collection, street lighting and water.

Mayor Bode has appealed to Cairo residents to pay their taxes, asserting that there are fewer delinquencies among county residents.

Rescuing Bread Pudding

NOW often you have heard the peevish words: "Oh, I hate that old bread pudding!" Here are two ways to rescue bread puddings from such condemnation and make it not a penalty but a delight:

Hawaiian Bread Pudding: Scald two cups milk, add one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, and pour over two cups stale bread (pieces not crumbs), letting it stand until soft and milk taken up by the bread. Add two beaten eggs, and pour into a large shallow baking dish. Lay the drained slices from a No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple over the top, and bake in a slow oven, 350°, for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves eight very liberally. Serve with the following

Sauce: Smooth together one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup cold water. Heat the syrup from the pineapple, add, and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg.

Try Whole Wheat

Pineapple Pudding: Toast four slices of whole wheat bread, butter and cut into small squares. Place in bottom of a baking dish and pour over the drained fruit from half of a No. 2 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Beat one egg, add four tablespoons sugar, one cup milk and a few grains of nutmeg and pour over. Bake in a slow, 350°, oven for about forty minutes. Serve warm with sauce made by stirring together the pineapple syrup and some heavy cream. This serves six.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

ELEANOR BOARDMAN'S hobby is a feminine and rather charming one. It is her home in Beverley Hills—an interest which naturally appeals to her since she studied art in New York and began a promising career as an interior decorator before she went into pictures.

She planned every detail of her house which contains many rare and beautiful objects—colorful old tapestries, valuable paintings by masters and moderns and scores of interesting small objects, each carefully chosen for the spot it occupies. She even designed and had especially built most of the furniture which is modern in tone but adapted to the livable charm of the whole scheme.

Her hospitality is marked with this same love of beautiful effect. She loves to have friends drop in for tea and delights in bedecking a tea table. If the flowers are pink roses in a silver bowl, there will be pink and white bon bons in a graceful silver compote. If she uses her Wedgwood cups—a choice possession—and fills a Wedgwood vase with spring flowers, candies in a shallow bowl echo the pastel shades. Little open-faced sandwiches, which she loves to invent, often aid the color scheme with the pale orange of Russian caviar, bright red or green pepper strips, the yellow of egg slices and the scarlet of ripe tomatoes.

Eleanor Boardman manages to pack into her busy days two other exacting hobbies—painting and piano playing. She also swims and plays both tennis and golf with better than average skill. Her only pets are two bird dogs and, when time and opportunity permit, she will desert her charming home for a hunting lodge where she wears rough clothes and hiking boots and gives her dogs plenty of excitement.

Such leisure as is left from all these activities she is likely to spend in her library, indulging a very genuine taste for good literature. She is distinguished for her wit and her gems of repartee are quoted in Hollywood much as Dorothy Parker is quoted in New York though Miss Boardman's humor is of a kindlier, less cynical sort.

As I See It—

The intersection nearly always presents a number of hangers-on who might be persuaded to ride, but Wednesday found an unusual aggregation of humanity present. There were three collitch boys, all freshly laundried in linen pantaloons, three negro men, and two honest knights of the road.

If you, too, have admired the ease and poise of Robert Montgomery on the screen, it might be of interest to note that for the first sixteen years of his life he had every facility of riches at his command. Robert is, therefore, quite at home in social situations.

At the close of the first sixteen years of his life, Robert's father decided to end his life with two revolver shots. After that, young Robert gave up his yachts, his polo ponies and his expensive automobiles and went to work as an oiler of freight engines in a railroad roundhouse.

Among some of the Big Things that Sikeston is proud of are the International Shoe Factory, The Bank of Sikeston, Tom Allen, the Municipal Light Plant, the State Highway Division 10, The Scott County Mill Co., The Sikeston Standard, Jim Philes, and we would mention the Federal Building if it were not so far out of town.

* * *

Only a few words spoken by W. L. Huters, manager of the International Shoe Factory, here today, made workers smile, and business men beam. 'The local factory will soon increase production to near capacity". Not a very long statement, but just as full of meaning for Sikeston as Silent Cal's famous pronouncement about running was to the Republican party back in 1928. There was a time when some people snubbed a job, when they worked if they felt like it, and laid off when they didn't That has not been the case in recent years in Sikeston or naywhere else. Men want to work, and the announcement that work will soon be available again at the factory here is being met with joy. For the workers it means more pay and more pay means buying a few of the extras that make life worth living. And it means also the laying up of a savings fund against a possible slump in production in the months to come. Sikeston is glad to hear this bit of news.

Better Breakfasts

MANY schools serve their pupils milk or chocolate in the middle of the morning. They do it, because the average child, regardless of family circumstances, does not have a nourishing breakfast at home. That ought to make mothers stop and think. The truth is that every child, and every adult as well, ought to have a good substantial breakfast before he leaves the house. Here is a better breakfast that will make breakfast planning easy.

Grapefruit and Apricot Compote
Hot or Cold Breakfast Cereal
Bacon with Fried Bananas
Popovers Hot Beverage

This breakfast contains plenty of fruit, as it should to be dietetically correct and start the day right, and it is quite simple to prepare. But perhaps you don't know how to make the compote, so here's the recipe.

Chill one No. 2 can of grapefruit and one 8-ounce can of apricots separately in the ice box over night. In the morning combine them, and serve in glass fruit dishes. You may add a sprig of fresh mint, for an additional touch, and fresh grapefruit may be used in place of the canned, but in that case you must add sugar to taste. This recipe will serve six people.

Good Coffee

Coffee is the almost universal American breakfast beverage. Good coffee means coffee that has retained all of its flavor and aroma, and that means any of the brands of coffee that come in "vacuum packed" cans.

CHAPTER VIII

The Bronx was beginning its early morning activities. A woman was raising a cloud of dust sweeping off the front stoop of an apartment house. A milkman ran up the steps from the basement entrance to the apartment house in which Mike Thomas lived. His horse started up before the milkman had climbed into the wagon. Mike came out of the garage next door, whistling gaily. Two or three children stared at him in silence, not even returning his greeting.

Herman, the janitor, was mopping the steps. He looked up without speaking as Mike came bounding up.

"Great morning,' ain't it?" laughed Mike.

"Yeah, yeah, it is," agreed the janitor, soberly, "had a good night?"

"Swell—swell. And maybe I ain't ready for the 'hay!"

The janitor's eyes followed Mike as he ran up the first flight of stairs, still whistling, then, stepping carefully, followed him. When he heard Mike unlock his door and go in, Herman ascended the second flight to find Mrs. Weis, the Jewish woman who had offered to care for little Mike when the police took Mary away, opening the door of her apartment and looking after Mike.

"Nobody ain't disgraced—nobody. You get that! Mary ain't that kind of a girl.

"Did you tell him?" she asked.

"No. I somehow...just couldn't. I didn't have the heart."

"Somebody's got to tell him."

"Yes," agreed Herman, heavily, "somebody's got to tell him."

Little Mike was in his crib, sitting up, hanging on to the crosspiece, his legs thrust through the bars, wiggling with sheer happiness. He heard a sound at the door, the clicking sound that usually meant his father was coming home and he began an up-and-down wiggling indicative of joy. The door opened and big Mike's head appeared and then his body. Little Mike grinned and began to crow with joy.

"Shut up, you big brute," said Mike, laying a finger on his lip, "you'll wake your mother." His hoarsely whispered words were much louder than the baby's crowing, and much more calculated to wake a sleeping woman. He gave the baby a finger to hold, grinning amiably until the child started to bite at the finger to which he clung.

"No, you don't, young fella! I haven't got a thimble on! Where's your ma? Still sleeping?"

The baby jumped up and down, ecstatically happy at the attention being paid to him. He cooed and gurgled with delight. Mike leaned down and picked up his son.

"I'll bet you kept her awake all night, you little devil. Be quiet now, and we'll get our own breakfast. She's closed her bedroom door so I wouldn't wake her."

He took the child into the kitchen, opened a quart bottle of milk, poured a glass for himself and some more into a pan, which he set aside for a moment, while he started his own breakfast, before heating it for little Mike. He found some bacon and eggs in the refrigerator, put the bacon on to fry and some coffee on to boil, turning every now and then to talk to the baby, who scarcely took his eyes off the man he meant when he said "da-da-da."

"My, don't that bacon smell good, Mike? And the coffee! You'd like some, wouldn't you? Well, you just wait and you shall have some—if you wait long enough!' A year maybe. And now you just watch your daddy and learn how to fry eggs. Always fry them in bacon grease and they get all nice and brown around the edges. See the egg fall out of the shell when I crack it like this?...See, ain't that a pretty sight for a hungry man? No? Well, just for that, I won't give you a single taste! Milk's all you're gonna get."

While the eggs were frying he heated the milk for the baby, scalded the nipple in a pan of boiling water, washed his hands thoroughly, poured the milk into the bottle and adjusted the nipple.

"There you are, Your Highness; that'll put hair on your chest—and teeth in your mouth. Fall to, eat hearty, and I'll do the same."

He placed two arm chairs together and laid little Mike down in them and gave him the nursing bottle. The child kicked up his heels, rubbing his feet together while he sucked at the nipple. Mike himself fell to with the heartiness of hunger, looking at his son occasionally as the child cooed his satisfaction at getting the warm milk into his little stomach.

When he had finished eating, Mike stretched lazily, settled himself comfortably in his chair.

"We'll just let mother have her sleep out for once" he said. "You get her up often enough in the night, don't you? Well, you can just be satisfied at keeping your daddy company for a spell."

He closed his eyes and was soon breathing in the slow and regular suspiration of sleep. The baby, too, fell asleep, the nipple half in his mouth.

There was little noise in the street, except for the rumbling now and then of a passing elevated train or street car when a covered police patrol wagon backed up to the prison door. A minute or two later the door was opened and about a dozen women, some old, some young, walked solemnly to the wagon and climbed in. Then there was a wait, a silence which was broken after a time by the hysterical weeping of a woman from inside the prison door. The burly figure of a keeper then appeared, half carrying, half dragging Mary Thomas. She was struggling to break away from him, to go back into the prison. A prison guard appeared and between them Mary was bustled into the wagon. She grasped the handle of the wagon door and clung so tenaciously, weeping the while, that the guard had to force her fingers loose one by one. When he had succeeded and pushed her into a seat, he himself took the last seat, breathing audibly, and closed the door.

The patrol wagon started up as the bell in a nearby church tower struck the hour of seven.

Mike Thomas was awakened by the striking of the kitchen clock. He rubbed the sleep from his eyes and looked at the clock. It was just seven. Time for Mary to get up—any way time for him to get to bed. The baby began to pull himself up by the arms of the chair when Mike got up, and he took the child and tossed him to his shoulder.

"Come on, Mike; we'll go and wake up your ma. She'll scold us if we let her sleep too long."

The bedroom door was pulled to but not latched, as he had thought. But instead of going in, he knocked softly on it.

"Can a couple of gents say good morning?"

He waited for an answer, but none came. He threw the door open, saw the vacant bed, with the covers turned back, but the sheets unwrinkled, the pillow with a dent. He stood there aghast for a moment, then entered and at sight of his wife's night dress, ready to be put on, or folded away, he laughed.

"Key, kid; what do you think this is? April fool?"

He went softly to the door of the closet, leaned forward and said suddenly in a big voice:

"Come out, Fly! All is discovered!"

Still there was no reply, and Mike looked around uneasily. He opened the closet door. There was his best suit and Mary's dresses, but no Mary. He turned away, puzzled and irresolute; took the baby from his shoulder and tucked him under one arm.

"Mary!" he called, and there was an undertone of anxiety in his voice. He waited for a reply, then called again, imperatively, and waited with traces of increasing nervousness. The shades were down and the room, being on a court, was gloomy and dark. He went to the window and started to raise the shade. It slipped from his fingers and clattered up against the top of the window frame with a great noise. He looked around the room again; it was unnaturally quiet; he could hear the ticking of the clock in the sitting room.

"Mary!" he called, loudly; "Mary! Mary!" Panic had come into his voice, and the child began to whimper.

"It's all right, Mike. I didn't mean to scare you. Of course, she got up and, finding us both asleep in the kitchen, like a pair of boobs, went out marketing without waking us. Maybe she's coming up the stairs now. We'll go and meet her, shall we?"

As he opened the door into the hallway he found a cluster of people there. A couple of children scurried inside their own flats their eyes visible between the nearly-closed door and the jamb. The janitor was one of the group in the hallway. Mike gave a kind of grin as he saw him.

"Say, Herman, did my wife leave any message with you when she went out?"

"No," said Herman, slowly. "No, she didn't."

Mike was uneasy at the alertness of the eyes of his fellow apartment dwellers. They stared at him peculiarly.

"That's funny. She didn't leave any sort of message for me. Did you see her when she went out, Herman?"

"No; no, I didn't," replied the janitor, quickly.

"Ain't she home, Mr. Thomas," a woman with bleached hair and protruding eyeballs, whom he knew vaguely, asked with an eager curiosity.

"If she was home I wouldn't be askin' when she went out, would I?"

Mike began to become conscious of the covert stares of the half dozen persons in the hallway, the eagerness with which they watched him and his uneasiness increased.

"What are you all lookin' so funny for. What's happened?"

"Why, nothing—very much, Mike," replied Herman, as he encountered Mike's glance fixed directly on him. He shifted uneasily from one foot to the other.

Mike strode quickly to the janitor, laid a hand on his shoulder and gave him a slight shake.

"What are you keeping back from me? Was Mary taken sick or something?"

"No, nothing like that," the janitor assured him in sudden eagerness. "No, she's all right. She did have to go out for a little while, but I guess she'll be right back."

With his free hand, Mike shook Herman more violently so that his cap fell off.

"Stop stalling, Herman! What's happened to my wife?"

"The...." Herman stooped and recovered his cap. "The cops took her, Mike."

"What!" The incredulity on Mike's face was ludicrous but nobody laughed.

"The cops took her," repeated Herman.

Mike's face turned sickly-looking with fright.

"Herman, I told you not to drink any more of that bathtub gin. It's bound to get you. You ain't so funny, you know."

"I ain't been drinking, Mike. A cop come in and took her out of the room because—well, Mike, you gotta get it—because there was a man in her room and they was both of 'em undressed, and——" Suddenly his voice rose to a shriek before the menace in Mike's face and in his upraised fist. "Don't hit me, Mike! Please don't hit me!"

The rage on Mike Thomas's face was terrible to see. Two of the women drew back from him as far as they could—tight up against the wall, but none made a move to leave the hallway.

"Then quit your lyin' about her!" Mike said. By an effort he got control of himself; his fist was lowered and he spoke more gently. "You're just kiddin'. You and Mary put up a job on me to kinda scare me, ain't you? It's all right, fella, and the joke's on me. That's it, ain't it?"

"Not, it ain't," said a woman's shrill voice. "I seen 'em both and they was pretty near naked. She picked him up on the street and brought him into her flat, in this building where me and my little girl lives. We're all disgraced by her."

Mike raised his free arm in anger and shoved Herman out of his way and went close up to the old woman who had spoken. He grabbed her by the dress and drew her face close up to his.

"Nobody ain't disgraced—nobody. You get that! Mary ain't that kind of a girl."

"I know what I seen," said the woman, glaring up into his eyes. "And I seen 'em as plain as I see you."

She thought Mike was going to strike her and raised her hands to protect her face, but Mike turned contemptuously away from her and went back to the janitor.

"Now, then, Herman, come on quick now, just what happened? I gotta find out. Don't you see?... I gotta find out. You come into my flat and tell me everything that happened."

He dragged Herman by the arm into his apartment and shut the door upon the others.

Mr. Bartholomew will preach tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock upon the question, "Is It Easy to Forgive Sin?" Friday night the service will be in the interest of fathers and sons. A committee has been appointed to invite and bring the men together with sons for this particular service.

The afternoon meetings for Bible Lectures have been splendidly attended and a fine interest manifested in the children's meetings.

TO ST. LOUIS AND RETURN FOR $2.05 OFFERED BY FRISCO

According to Tom Malone, local Frisco agent, his friends in the district, including Sikeston, are invited to avail themselves of an opportunity to ride to St. Louis and return next Sunday for only $2.05.

Special excursion rates from Chaffee make the low fare possible, according to Mr. Malone. Would-be travelers would leave Sikeston at 2:34 Sunday morning, arriving in Chaffee in plenty of time for the excursion train leaving that city at 4 o'clock. The special train is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis at 7:50 o'clock in the morning.

Returning visitors may leave the city at 10 p. m. Sunday night, arriving Chaffee at 2 o'clock Monday morning. This arrangement could be improved upon, said Mr. Malone, by waiting until 11:40 o'clock in St. Louis for No. 805 which arrives in Sikeston at 3:49 o'clock Monday morning.
